

IT'S WAR! MUSSOLINI'S EDICT

ROOSEVELT AND LEADERS CONFER
ON 'MUST' BILLSPresident Insists on Entire Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, conferring with his leaders in congress for three hours at the White House tonight, refused to discard a single measure on his "must" program and the leaders went away planning to join adjourning the session.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson said he was hopeful, but not confident that the remaining business could be disposed of by Thursday. At any rate, he added, not more than a week would be required.

The President made only one concession and that was in the form of the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility bill which Senator Robinson said would be passed. This most controversial measure of the whole program has been deadlocked in conference for weeks over the senate's "death sentence" for all holding companies beyond the first degree, on which the house defied the President.

Expect a Compromise.

It was understood that a compromise would be worked out along the lines of the house bill making the dissolution of holding companies discretionary with the Securities and Exchange commission.

When asked what bills had been "jettisoned," Senator Robinson replied: "Nothing has been jettisoned."

The remaining bills the house and senate leaders plan to jam through include even the new Frazier-Lemke farm bankruptcy measure, designed to take the place of the act killed by the Supreme court, and two bills for federal railway pensions. These would supplant the railway pension act passed at the last session and likewise erased by the high court. One bill would levy the taxes on pay rolls and the other would provide the pensions.

There was no indication that Mr. Roosevelt had put these measures on his "must" list, but Senator Robinson announced plans to take them up in the senate tomorrow and Tuesday.

Bills Still on List.

Otherwise, the "must" list now includes:

1. The wealth confiscation tax bill, tied up in conference.
2. The Wheeler-Rayburn bill.
3. Amendments to the Tennessee Valley authority act, drastically increasing the powers of that organization and legalizing its past activities. This also is deadlocked in conference.
4. The Walsh bill requiring NRA standards where government loans and contracts are involved. It has passed the senate but not the house.
5. The bill barring suits for gold or its equivalent on repudiated government obligations.
6. The Guffey coal bill, creating a special NRA for the soft coal industry with price fixing, wage and hour regulation and working of the consumers. The house will send this measure to the senate tomorrow.
7. The banking bill, revising the federal reserve system, on which conference have agreed.
8. The federal alcohol control bill, still deadlocked in conference over the question of bulk liquor sales.
9. A third deficiency appropriation bill.
10. An omnibus rivers and harbors bill.

Drug Bill to Slide By.

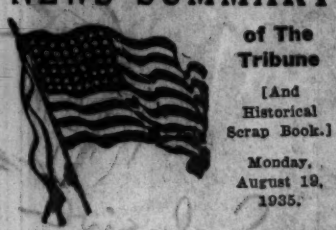

The White House conference indicated that no efforts would be made to pass several measures pending in the legislative hopper but not on the President's "must" list. These include the 100 per cent tax on war profits, passed by the house; the Copeeland-Tugwell food, drug, and cosmetics bill, passed by the senate; the ship subsidy bill, passed by the house; and the Duffy bill amending the copyright law, which the senate has passed.

Sensor Robinson at first indicated some doubt about the TVA amendments, saying there "probably" would be a conference report, but when nudged by Senator Joseph T. Byrnes he changed this to "will be." The house conferees object chiefly to the duplication of existing power transmission lines.

FUNERAL PLANE
AT VANCOUVER;
IN U. S. TODAYFly from Fairbanks in Ten Hours.

First Pictures
The first pictures to reach Chicago of the crash in which Will Rogers and Wiley Post were killed are on the back page.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post rested in their funeral plane under close guard in a hangar at Sea Island airport here tonight after a 1,700 mile flight from Fairbanks, Alaska.

The arrival at 9:11 p. m. [Chicago time] in a dual-motored Pan-American Airways plane piloted by Joe Crosson, intimate friend of both, was unexpected and few persons were there when the curtained plane landed.

It was not until the ship was over Squamish, 30 miles north of Vancouver, that Robert Gleason, radio operator aboard, signaled the plane would land.

"Please notify Vancouver authorities we are arriving. Thanks," was his terse message.

On to U. S. This Morning.
Crosson said the ship would remain here over night and resume its trip to Seattle in the morning with the bodies of the noted philosopher and round-the-world flyer who were killed by the crash of their plane on a flying vacation trip near isolated Point Barrow Thursday night.

The flight from Fairbanks, with one stop at White Horse, Yukon territory, for refueling, was made in a few minutes over 10 hours.

Crosson took over the land plane at Fairbanks after bringing the bodies on the 500 mile trip from Point Barrow in a pontoon equipped ship.

Before leaving Fairbanks Crosson said he intended to put down at Prince George, in northern British Columbia, for the night. Favorable flying conditions, however, permitted him to make faster time than he expected over the mountainous country of the "inside" route.

Flies to Arrange Reception.
In Seattle Clarence Young, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics and now Pacific coast manager for Pan-American, arranged to receive the plane there in the morning. Young arrived in Seattle by air from San Francisco tonight to take charge.

He immediately began conferring with naval officers about an escort of navy planes which Lieutenant Commander H. F. Kendall of the San Point naval air station said was authorized to accompany the funeral plane south to Los Angeles.

Although Crosson and Pan-American Airways officials said the bodies of Post and Rogers would remain here tonight, many persons waited at the airport here and at Seattle in the belief Crosson might take off on a surprise flight to avoid large crowds certain to be drawn by a definite announcement.

Hundreds at Fairbanks.
Several hundred Fairbanks residents were at the field to bid silent farewell to the famous comedian and the noted aerial world girder.

It was just twelve days ago that Post and Rogers flew northward from Seattle on a pleasure jaunt.

FAN DANCER TAKES OFF
SHOES; LEAPS IN RIVER
AFTER MAN; SAVE BOTH

Miss Renee Villon, a fan dancer, leaped into the river yesterday to save William Johnson, 36 years old, 716 Rush street, who had jumped from the lower level of the Michigan avenue bridge in a suicide attempt. Both Johnson and Miss Villon were rescued by Lawrence Northrop, owner of a speed boat concession at the north end of the bridge. A note revealed that Johnson had determined to end his life after being unemployed three years.

Miss Villon, with her sister, Yvonne, 21 years old, was standing on a speed boat concession landing northwest of the bridge when she saw Johnson leap. She kicked off her shoes and swam toward the struggling man. She had overestimated her strength, however, and was in distress when picked up.

On Aug. 6, Miss Villon, who is 23 years old, was sentenced by Judge Edgar A. Jones in the Women's court, to serve 30 days in the Bridewell for performing an indecent dance in a local theater. She is appealing the sentence.

Liner Collides
Head-On with
Ship; 6 Killed

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Six seamen perished and five others were injured in a bow-to-bow collision of the Cunard liner Laurentie and the Blue Star steamer Napier Star, in the fog-shrouded Irish channel today. The 19,000-ton Laurentie, carrying 620 disappointed passengers, and the Napier Star limped back to Liverpool in the tow of tugs, and docked safely this afternoon. Both were damaged badly. Neither ship sent out an S O S.

The ships collided in a dense fog 60 miles out of Liverpool early this morning, a few hours after the Laurentie had embarked on a fortnight's cruise of northern capitals. The Napier Star, partly loaded with cargo, was en route from Glasgow to Liverpool to complete the loading.

Sleeping Sailors Crushed.
They locked with a grinding smash that tore a long hole down the Laurentie's bow side, crushing her crewmen as they slept in their bunks.

The bow of the Napier Star was smashed in for twenty feet and her forecastle housing was carried away. The bunks of the Laurentie's crew could be seen through the gap in her side as she lay at her dock tonight. It was in these bunks that the sleeping seamen were trapped.

Passengers Remain Calm.
Despite the knowledge that had the ships met twenty feet nearer the Laurentie's center a hole would have been torn in the middle of the first-class quarters, her passengers were calm and unexcited when they disembarked. The cruise was called off and the passengers were put on special trains for London. Among them were several members of the nobility.

T. Van Den Bergh of London, a passenger on the Laurentie, told how he and the others were awakened by the sounding of an alarm gun and mustered on deck in orderly fashion for the issuance of life belts.

"Many women and children stood in their night clothes, with blankets wrapped about them," he said.

"After a half hour we were informed there was no danger and allowed to return to our cabins. Most of the passengers were sleeping at the time of the impact."

M'CUTCHEON ON THE GRAF

Cartoonist Begins to Feel at Home on the Zeppelin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
RECIFE, Brazil, Aug. 18.—After a 1,200 mile flight the Graf Zeppelin is beginning to feel like home. The motion is similar to that of a steamship, with the occasional slight roll thus far occasioning no inward qualm among the passengers.

At 9 o'clock last night we circled over Bahia, our searchlights flooding the city beneath with the moon arising theatrically from the ocean. We all slept soundly on our first night, possibly the result of starting the day at 3 a. m.

We arrived here at 6 o'clock this morning, a ground force of 200 securing the Zeppelin to the mooring mast. Two ton cement blocks were hung on the side rails. The Graf is spending the entire day refueling. It uses seven tons of gasoline mixed with ordinary cooking gas, thus reducing the weight of the fuel. Her five motors consume 125 gallons hourly.

Recife (Pernambuco), the capital of the state of Pernambuco, is called the Venice of South America because of the several islands, large canals and many reefs which gave it the name Recife. We expected little, but found the city attractive, as is the neighboring old Portuguese and Dutch town of Olinda with its fascinating collection of ancient buildings cresting the hills.

Jack [John T. McCutcheon Jr.] and I saw May Robson in "Dama por Dia" ("Lady for a Day") this afternoon.

We sail again at 8 o'clock tonight.

SPEEDBOAT CUTS
COAST GUARDS
OUT OF A RESCUE

For nearly half an hour late yesterday afternoon a coast guard crew under Capt. John O. Anderson cruised about near a capsize sailboat off the Two Mile crib, on the information that one, or perhaps two, men in the craft had been drowned.

When the hunt was abandoned and the coast guardsmen were towing the boat back to shore, they learned that the two occupants had been rescued by a speedboat a few minutes before Capt. Anderson arrived. The two are: Harry Greenburgh, 35 years old, 3507 Congress street, and William Matzke, 30, of 328 North Francisco avenue.

The 14 foot sloop was overturned by a sudden squall about 200 feet west of the crib. Greenburgh, unable to swim, held to a life preserver until a speedboat, driven by Walter Popmer, who saw the accident, arrived from the Sam's showboat.

Woman Burns to Death in Hotel Room

One woman was burned to death and another woman was probably fatally burned in a fire which swept a room in the St. Clair hotel, 162 East Ohio street, early this morning. The dead woman is believed to have been Miss Sally Bruner, manicurist at the Hotel Sherman.

The fire occurred at 4 o'clock in the room of Miss Bruner who has lived at the St. Clair for three years. Guests on the floor expressed the belief that Miss Bruner was the dead woman although she was so badly burned identification was difficult. The other woman was taken to the Passavant hospital unconscious. At the time she was believed to be Miss Bruner and was so registered at the hospital.

The fire was discovered by Walter Gray, an elevator operator. He heard a woman scream and hurried to the first floor to obtain assistance. Thomas Taylor, the night manager, and Arthur Armstrong, night bell boy, rushed to room 609 and opened the door with a pass key. One woman was beating on the door and screaming for help.

As she was dragged out she muttered that there was another woman in the room. Armstrong seized a hotel fire hose and was fighting the flames as the fire department arrived. In a few moments the fire was under control.

Nazi Economic
Chief Assails
Jew Baiters

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, economic dictator of Nazi Germany, openly and vigorously warned his countrymen today against Jew baiters, persons who are persecuting Christian churches, and Nazi radical experimenters. He accused such persons of harming business and interfering with Germany's economic recovery.

"It is exceedingly dangerous to try to gloss over Germany's economic difficulties with a few cheap slogans," declared the usually soft spoken Schacht, who is president of the Reichsbank as well as minister of economics.

Schacht, speaking at the opening of the East Prussian fair at Konigsberg, appeared to be challenging Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and Julius Streicher, leading anti-Semitic agitator.

Hits "Certain Contemporaries."
"There are certain contemporaries of whom one can think only with the prayer in mind, 'O Lord, preserve us from our friends,'" Schacht asserted scathingly. "These are the people who at nights heroically smear paint on shop windows, who brand every German who buys from a Jewish shop a traitor, who call all former Free Masons scoundrels, and who are unable to distinguish between religion and the abuse of the pulpit."

"Their aims are worthy. Secret societies have no right to exist in the third reich. Pastors and priests must minister to the soul and not dabble in politics. Jews must resign themselves to a realization that their influence is broken in Germany once and for all."

Says State Must Lead.
"But all these problems must be solved under the guidance of the state and cannot be settled through sporadic actions which seriously disturb business. They are forbidden by the state as well as by party officers. Now, as before, Jewish businesses are allowed to operate, as stated officially by Deputy Party Leader Rudolf Hess, and by the propaganda ministry, and by my own ministry of economics."

"It is up to the government to decide when and where Jewish business is to be curtailed. Those who fail to respect instructions lack discipline and I shall hold them responsible if it becomes impossible to carry out financial and economic work entrusted to me by the fuhrer [Hitler]."

"It is absolutely essential for the offices responsible for German recovery that the world keep faith in Germany as the state in which law is respected. According to point four of the Nazi program, Jews cannot be citizens. Point five of the program provides that special legislation be prepared for them. This legislation is being worked out. Until it is published, existing laws must be respected."

"The same attitude applies to the church problem, which is of definitely greater importance to Germany than the Jewish question."

This fairly contradicted Nazi officials

ITALY BLASTS
PLAN FOR PEACE
WITH ETHIOPIABritish and French
Quit Parley.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Offered a mandate over Ethiopia in everything but name, Premier Mussolini today slammed down a Black Shirt "No" on the board of the three power conference and that ended the conference.

Though a communique issued tonight stated that negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute would continue through diplomatic channels, Il Duce's answer to the Franco-British proposal was interpreted to mean just one thing—that Mussolini is going through with it. This means that when the rains cease the Italian legions will march into Ethiopia and keep going until they reach Addis Ababa—or some new Adowa (the Italian Waterloo in 1896).

British Accept Challenge.

But that is only half the story. The other half is that the British have accepted Mussolini's challenge and have no more intention of backing down than has he. How far they are prepared to go to thwart the Italian dictator remains to be seen.

The attitude of British diplomats here tonight, however, left no doubt that at the very least Italy will be pilloried when the league of nations council meets Sept. 4 and that nothing will be left undone to mobilize the moral indignation of the civilized world against the country.

France's attitude likewise is clear. Torn between two loyalists Premier Pierre Laval has decided to sacrifice Italian friendship for the British and will back up Great Britain in Geneva. This was learned tonight from an unimpeachable French source.

Day Packed with Action.

This dramatic situation, which in the opinion of many observers carries the germ of something more than a colonial war in it, grew out of a day packed with tense action. The stage was set yesterday when the conference waited all day for an answer from Rome to the peace proposal transmitted Friday.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Mussolini's representative, communicated the answer to Premier Laval this morning. It was a flat rejection of the Franco-British plan, which offered sweeping economic concessions in Ethiopia, supplemented by extensive Italian control over the Ethiopian administration and military protection for the Italian frontier and Italian settlers.

Almost immediately after Aloisi left Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league of nations affairs, looking nervous and grim, jumped out of his car and ducked into Laval's office.

Decide to Adjourn.

The two statesmen decided that unless Aloisi could get from Mussolini some definite Italian counter proposal the conference would be immediately wound up, leaving Mussolini to bear the blame.

Aloisi, however, obtained no new instructions from his master. In slow, polished, and slightly disdainful accents, the bald headed ace of Fascist diplomacy gave the French and British to understand that Mussolini would be satisfied with nothing less than "annexation of Ethiopia in whole or in part."

Laval, it is understood, had difficulty in keeping his temper in hand, and is reported to have directly accused Mussolini of having broken a personal promise made to him during his Rome visit.

Eden finally observed that his colleagues doubters were very busy men and that really there did not seem much utility in further discussion, whereupon the conference officially came to an end.

Text of Communique.

The communique announcing the adjournment read:

"Pierre Laval, representing France; Anthony Eden, representing Great Britain; and Baron Pompeo Aloisi, representing Italy, assembled in Paris to search for a means of peacefully solving the Italo-Ethiopian difference. They have not yet been able to find a basis for discussion which would permit solution of the conflict. Difficulties encountered in examination of suggestions made during the discussions necessitated adjournment of the study undertaken, which will be pursued through diplomatic channels."

The British embassy was in turmoil until after 9 o'clock tonight and both British and American newspaper correspondents were summoned to three separate conferences in the course of the evening, showing the extraordinary effort the British are making to mobilize world opinion against the Italians.

Eden will see Laval tomorrow to plan future action and will then probably return to London. Aloisi likewise is expected to leave tomorrow for Rome.

In the opinion of the British the outlook is absolutely hopeless and only a miracle can produce any change in the situation before the league council meets Sept. 4. There is not much optimism in French circles either.

Terms of Peace Plan.

The seriousness of the situation was apparent from the terms of the Franco-British compromise plan, which not only included exclusive economic and political rights for Italy but would have given the Italians complete military security through demilitarization of wide zones adjoining Italian territory. It would also have allowed Italian officials to organize the Ethiopian military and police forces, while the possibility of a foreign military police force was not even ruled out.

The offer was conditioned on maintenance of the independence and territorial integrity of Ethiopia, the consent of Ethiopia, and approval of the league.

At a less critical moment such a proposal would probably have shocked and astounded the world, for it amounts to setting up a mandate over Ethiopia, hitherto a sovereign country and a full fledged member of the league of nations.

Why War Seems Certain.

From a practical standpoint this arrangement would have given the Italians as much control over Ethiopia as the French have over Syria without any time limit.

It is easy to understand, therefore, why the British and French are convinced that Mussolini really means to go ahead with the conquest of Ethiopia.

As the diplomats here see it, if Duce has staked his prestige, which is the cornerstone of his regime, on the conquest of Ethiopia and it is too late for him to back down even if he wanted to.

Britain Committed, Too.

The British cannot very well back down either, having taken a too definite stand in their recent press conference. Since the French tied themselves to the British everybody's bluff is called and there is nothing left to do but lay down the hands all around regardless of the consequences.

If Duce's cards are already evident and it is equally evident that the league council has got to denounce Italy which will automatically cause her to withdraw from the league.

What other cards the British are prepared to play is hard to tell, and owing to the whipping up of public opinion in Great Britain, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's cabinet may not yet know how far it has committed itself.

Seemingly the only thing that can stop Mussolini is an economic blockade and closing of the Suez canal which might precipitate a European war. For the moment the chief concern of the British is the safety of the whites in Ethiopia. This Tusnau was reliably informed that a substantial strengthening of the British legion guard at Addis Ababa, regardless of how the Italians interpret such action, will be effected without delay.

ETHIOPIANS JAM CHURCHES; JOIN IN PEACE PRAYERS

Nation Invokes 1,500 Year Old Rites.

BY WILL BARBER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 18.—With lilting chants in minor tones, the highest priests of Ethiopia, gathered at St. George's church in the presence of Emperor Haile Selassie I. and the empress, led the Ethiopian nation today in prayers for liberty and for deliverance from war with Italy.

Cornelius Van H. Engert, the American chargé d'affaires, stood to the right of the emperor during the ceremonies beside the duke of Harrar, the emperor's second son, 11 years old.

The abuna—the Egyptian pope of the Ethiopian church—mentioned that similar prayers were to be offered in American churches. He said that all lands that prayed for Ethiopia would find their prayers answered if ever they are in need.

Enemies to Be Confronted.
"God will confound our enemies, will break their hearts and shatter their staves in their hands," the abuna said.

Churches throughout Ethiopia were crowded, the big round churches of Addis Ababa and the tiny mud and thatched churches of distant hamlets. So great was the crush of ministers, notables, and chiefs in St. George's that hundreds of people stood outside in the large church yard in a drizzling rain.

But all prayed as their richly decked but shoeless priests led them through the incense of 1,500 year old rites, and all were convinced that "God will shatter our enemies' staves in their hands."

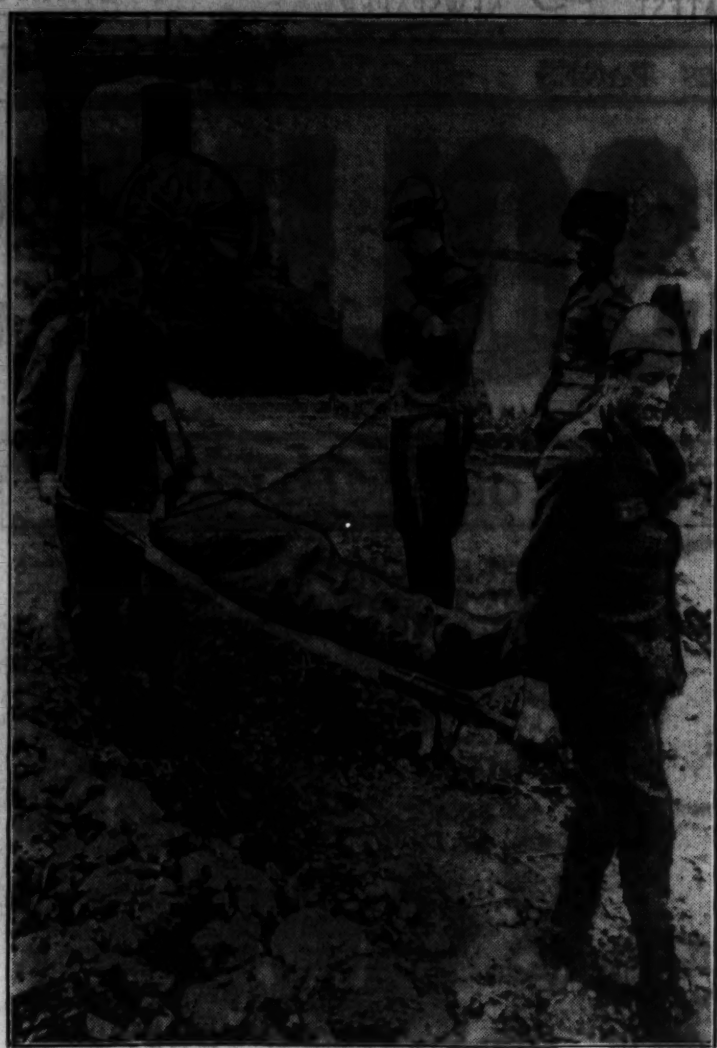

Hundreds Take Rifles.
Nevertheless, hundreds of men took their rifles to the very gates of the church—no Ethiopian who owns a rifle ever goes out without it.

The emperor, cloaked in black, stood rigid in the west of the church looking eastward at the altar before which stood a young priest dressed in purple and bearing in his clasped arms a portrait of Jesus with black hair, a black beard, and a sunburned but white face like the emperor's own.

To the left and right priests, arrayed in black cloaks of gold and red brocade vestments, clustered on the steps, and just in front of them stood the high priest, with a shoulder high cross, and the chief abbot of Ethiopia, dressed in black.

Bell Rings Softly, Then Loudly.
The odor of incense rose up from brass ornaments, the coner pot tinkled, and a bell rang out, now loudly, now softly. In ancient Ge'ez, which is the language of the church but is unintelligible to the people, the priests sang the praises of God and prayers for peace in minor tones that rose, died down, and rose again.
Off to the right, behind the curtain where the empress stood with her attendants, rose occasionally the chants of the priests.
A notable feature of the ceremony

Italian Army Stretchers in Use

at St. George's was the fact that Mohammedan chiefs from many parts of the land attended Christian mass for the first time in the history of Ethiopia.

The ceremony ended with the emperor kissing the cross while the priests held up their togas in front of him to ward off the evil eye, for Ethiopian Christianity has its little superstitions.

As some of the priests moved off they revealed that they wore Japanese socks of a kind that fetch a dime a pair. The red silk umbrellas held over the portrait of Christ was torn in two places.

Arab Chiefs Open Parley on Italo-Ethiopian Row

AMMAN, Transjordan, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Preliminary ceremonies of the Arab chieftains' conference on the Italo-Ethiopian situation began today. Emir Abdullah of Transjordan announced receipt of a telegram from Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia, declaring the good will visit of his son, Emir Saud, to the meeting was "a cornerstone in a new era of Arab unity." Other messages of adherence were received from the Union of Arab Parties in Syria.

Surgeons Quarrel Over Technique; 1 Hurt in Duel

BUDAPEST, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The tense atmosphere of an operating room exploded in a violent dispute today between Dr. Laszlo Farkas and Dr. Josef Krauss over a point in surgical technique. In a subsequent duel with cavalry sabers Dr. Krauss was critically injured. Both men were connected with St. John's hospital.

MUSSOLINI TELLS TROOPS: 'FORGET ORATORY; MARCH'

Diplomats' Polemics Must End, Duce Asserts.

ROME, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini said today discourses relating to the Italo-Ethiopian dispute are to be "abolished."

His remarks, addressed to 15,000 men of the 29th of October division of Black Shirts, were made simultaneously with the reception here of telephoned information from Paris that the tripartite conference seeking a solution to the East African problem had been discontinued.

Without immediate knowledge of the Paris development, Mussolini exhorted the Black Shirts to "forget diplomatic polemics."

Says Discourse Must End.

"This hour," he said, "is solemn for you and decisive for the nation. Discourse must be abolished. You have your orders in the name of your division. [The 28th of October division was named for the anniversary of the Black Shirt march on Rome.] You will march over every obstacle until you have reached the goal which will be pointed out to you."

Official circles considered the breaking up of the Paris conference the logical outcome of what they called a last minute effort to seek compromises for the Italo-Ethiopian problem.

Farewells for Italian soldiers departing from Naples for East Africa were tinged with sadness tonight as the cruiser Diaz arrived with the bodies of eight persons, including Minister of Public Works Raza, who were killed in the crash of an airplane near Cairo Aug. 8.

Truck Steamer Leaves.

The cruiser and the wharves were decorated with black bunting. The bodies will be given full military honors in Rome tomorrow.

In the midst of the stir caused by the arrival of the bodies, the steamer Gianfranco departed with a cargo of trucks and mules for East African service.

Meanwhile the Fascist war cry of "Believe, obey, fight!" echoed through Italy as Mussolini spent a hot Sunday inspecting Black Shirt legions destined for East African service.

Report Italian Troop Movement.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Harar said today the Ethiopian government is moving a considerable number of troops in the direction of Dolo, a small town near the Italian Somali-land frontier.

JAFSIE IN BOSTON TO TELL ON STAGE HOW SENSES ARE DECEIVED

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—If Dr. John F. Jafsie failed to stop the show in the Gayety theater tonight he certainly succeeded in prolonging it.

The self-billed "star witness in the greatest crime in history" played hookey from his family after attending church in the Bronx this morning and hopped on a Boston bound bus without tooth brush or luggage.

Dr. Condon said he had signed a contract to appear a week and that when he signed a promise he kept his word, no matter who complained. His act was a rambling conglomeration of assertions that criminologists too often used their eyes to the exclusion of the other senses, whereas he had developed the use of all six senses. Without referring to his identification of Bruno Richard Hauptmann's voice as that of the murderer of the Lindbergh baby, he said he would give a demonstration "for the first time on any stage" of how easy it was to deceive the senses.

ilities, would come from Eritrea in the northeast.

Reports were current, however, that the Italians are constructing a dam on the upper reaches of the Juba river which was construed as meaning they intend to use water impounded to irrigate the border country and make it more habitable for troops.

Italian Reports of Raid Denied.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Italian reports of a battle in French Somaliland, in which 100 persons were said to have been killed following a raid by Ethiopian tribesmen, were described as without foundation in local government circles today.

PREDICTS TOIL WILL UNRAVEL MORRISON CASE

Boyle Reconsiders Theory of Amateur Robbery.

Assistant State's Attorney John S. Boyle and Police Captain Andrew Barry said yesterday that despite the lack of clues to the slayers of Kenneth A. Morrison, assistant controller of the Chicago park district, they still have hopes of solving the mystery.

Prosecutor Boyle said he was certain hard work would bring about the arrest of the persons who shot the accountant three times Tuesday night or Wednesday morning and left him in his automobile at 628 Alaska street.

Boyle said that this murder was the work of amateur robbers. "Mr. Boyle observed, 'If so, they will be caught sooner or later and some one will talk. Right now, because of the utter failure of all clues pointing to a motive arising from Morrison's life or personality, it looks as though Morrison might have been the victim of robbers who thought he would be carrying a large amount of money. They may have met with resistance and one of them may have fired at Morrison in a moment of panic.'

Leaving the tentative robbery theory as one that time alone might verify, the prosecutor and the police captain directed their efforts yesterday to gathering further information about Morrison, his family life, his public life, and his life away from home and office.

When his family, consisting of the widow, Mrs. Ethelwynne Morrison, and three children of a former marriage, return today from Buffalo, N. Y., where the body was buried Saturday, Capt. Barry planned to question all of them separately concerning minute details of Morrison's family life.

Indulgent to an Extreme.
Information so far has been that Morrison's marital affairs were happy and that he was an indulgent husband and father.

Mrs. Marian Koch, 37 years old, maid in the Morrison home, said Morrison was constantly in debt because of the high scale on which the family lived. He drew a salary of $5,400 a year, with overtime of perhaps $500 annually. He denied his family anything within his means or slightly in excess of his means, she informed the authorities.

Morrison's first wife died eleven years ago, police were informed, and his second wife, a friend of the first, mothered his three small children. Donald, who is now 20 years old; Mary, now 18, and Allen, now 11.

Marked Absence of Quarreling.
There was never any trouble in the Morrison household over the friendship of Morrison and Mrs. Madge Watson, a waitress who he aided in getting a job with the park board.

Mrs. Koch said, although a remark she attributed to Mrs. Morrison indicated that Mrs. Morrison feared her husband might become involved with another woman.

Mrs. Koch said she doubted the possibility of Morrison's interest in any other woman because he was at home regularly in the evening except when he was working at his office. When he worked for a short time at the offices of the old west park board in Garfield park he stayed once or twice overnight at the Midwest Athletic club, the maid declared, but when he did so he telephoned to his wife.

"We are considering," Capt. Barry said, "the possibility Morrison may have been the victim of mistaken identity."

HUNTERS DANGLE CHOICE MORSELS BEFORE SEA LION

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Members of the Michigan City sea lion hunting expedition today were fearful that Oscar, Lake Michigan's sea lion, has been offended by them.

With fish and kind words they sought to regain his friendship to the end that they may land him in Washington park zoo.

For the third day the expedition, composed of civic minded business men and city officials, attempted to lure Oscar into a 200 foot fishing drag net. Surrounding the end of Government pier, where it is Oscar's wont to sun himself in late afternoon, the hunters nearly succeeded.

But as Oscar dodged and slipped away through the water, Police Detective Roosevelt Childers, chief huntsman of the expedition, struck the creature with a heavy hawser.

Late today Oscar was seen sulking several hundred yards out in the lake. T. C. Mullen, president of the Washington park board, and Ralph H. Dean, president of the zoo board, chief organizers of the expedition, then called off today's hunt and liberally baited the end of Government pier with fish and put out the "welcome" mate for Oscar. The hunt will be resumed tomorrow.

Boy Dies After Beating in $8 Davis Square Holdup

Theodore Para, 17 years old, 4418 South Honore street, died at the Holy Cross hospital yesterday from a skull fracture which he received when he was beaten and robbed of $8 Saturday night near Davis square, 44th and Paulina streets. The New City police were searching last night for Walter Smolek, alias Kruski, 19 years old.

LOUD AUTO HORNS GO UNDER POLICE BAN THIS WEEK

Arrest and Prosecution
Face Tests in Traffic.

BY HAL FOUST.
A period of lenience toward excessively loud automobile horns has ended. Capt. David Flynn, head of the police traffic division, said yesterday that beginning this week motorcycle men and the accident prevention squads will arrest and vigorously prosecute car owners blasting for the right of way with horns designed more to terrify or at least to startle, than merely to warn.

The new Illinois traffic code that became effective on July 9 has a section reading in part as follows: "No horn or other warning device shall emit an unreasonably loud or harsh sound or whistle."

Since Aug. 1, the police have issued nine summonses for violations of this provision, but in a majority of offenses the owner merely has been requested not to use his illegal device.

Court Easy on Offenders.
Judge Gorman of the Traffic court likewise has been lenient. He has disposed of five of the nine cases, discharging two and assessing a fine of $1 plus $1 costs in each of the other three.

"The law now has been in effect long enough," said Capt. Flynn, "that ignorance of this provision no longer is a reasonable excuse for violations. It has been in effect long enough for owners to have removed the offending device or to have subdued its sound."

In enforcing the statute, the police are instructed to exercise common sense. Many standard horns, improperly used, are louder than necessary or desirable for city traffic. Arrests, however, will be limited to horns that blast like a locomotive or that play a smart, aleck, bugle call, offending the ears of the whole neighborhood.

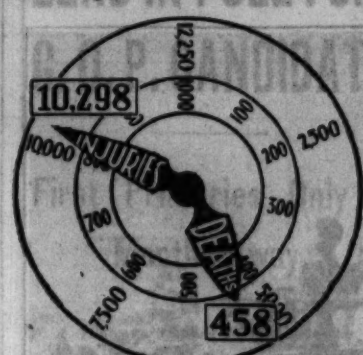

Many Unlawful Types.
There are plenty of flagrant violations of the horn regulation to occupy the police and the courts. One of the worst types releases compressed air with an explosion that unpleasantly stimulates heart beats of nearby pedestrians or fellow drivers caught unaware.

The defendants who have been fined by Judge Gorman are William Penn, 5901 South Michigan avenue; Stanley Olaszewski, 4456 Whipple street, and Hollis Skont, 1501 East 65th place. The two discharged are Lyle Reif, 3977 Drexel boulevard, and Adolph Dietrich, 4850 Haddon avenue.

Defendants in cases still pending are Edward Subroter, 5400 West 224 place; Marshall Watson, 841 Sunny-side avenue; Bernard Bose, 1308 South Sangamon street, and Elton Peacock, 829 Galt avenue.

No special penalty is provided by the traffic code for this offense. Under the penalty clause of the code covering all traffic misdemeanors, the first conviction calls for a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment for not more than ten days.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1935 Traffic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

PEDESTRIAN, 60, KILLED BY AUTO IN CHICAGO AVE.

Charles Greco, 60 years old, 2613 Rice street, died in the Norwegian-American hospital of injuries incurred yesterday morning when he was struck by an automobile at Chicago avenue and Rockwell street, Richard Didrickson, 21 years old, 1048 North Trumbull avenue, driver of the car, took the injured man to the hospital.

Greco's death and one other yesterday increased the 1935 traffic toll for Cook county to 579. At 4 p. m. yesterday 458 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits since Jan. 1 and 10,298 injured.

The other death: Jacob Cohen, 77 years old, 6235 St. Lawrence avenue, died in Woodlawn hospital of injuries received on Aug. 14 when he was struck by an automobile at 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The driver of the car, Ginter Cohl, 30 years old, 7054 Rhodes avenue, was not held, but was asked to attend the inquest.

TWO HURT WHEN HORSES RUN INTO SIDE OF SEDAN

A man and a woman, horseback riding on the bridge path which parallels McCormick boulevard in Roseville, were injured last night in an unusual accident when their mounts ran into the side of a sedan at Touhy avenue.

The injured are John E. Ward, 29 years old, 1151 Grace street, and Miss Tanya Westner, 21 years old, a dancer, 1511 North Clark street. The automobile, driven by Nathan Moskowitz, 1265 Farwell avenue, crossed the bridge path in front of their horses which could not stop quickly enough to avoid crashing into it.

Ward's horse fell, pinning him to the ground and breaking his leg. Miss Westner was thrown clear of her mount but she was bruised about the head and body. Both were taken to St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

FIRE DAMAGE THREE MILLS.
Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 18.—(AP)—One mill was destroyed and two others damaged in separate fires here today. The total loss was estimated at nearly $6,000. Four fire men were slightly injured.

THOUSANDS SEE GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCH OPENED

Order of Ahepa Begins Convention Here.

St. Demetrios church, Winona street and California avenue, largest Greek Orthodox edifice in America, was consecrated yesterday with a ceremony of Byzantine splendor, which attracted Greek Americans here from throughout the country.

The occasion was the opening of the 12th national convention of the Order of Ahepa, abbreviated name of the American-Hellenic Educational Progressive association, which will have a week of sessions at the Hotel Sherman.

Forty Clergymen Assist.
Forty bishops and priests assisted Archbishop Athenagoras, primate of the Greek Orthodox church in North and South America, in the traditional rites. Their processional in richly colored robes followed the ancient custom of the archbishop's "knocking" thrice at the door with his golden cross, demanding admission in the name of the Lord. Sacred relics of the body of St. Demetrios, the "soldier saint" of Greece, were deposited on the altar.

The service was witnessed by 3,000 people and another 2,000, it was estimated, were turned away.

Order Holds Initiation.
Initiation of new members into Ahepa was conducted last night in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman.

Archbishop Athenagoras will officiate this morning at religious services opening the first session of the convention. Organization of the convention with the election of a convention chairman will take place this afternoon. Tonight the members will take a lake cruise.

GALLI-CURCI OUT OF HOSPITAL; ON CALIFORNIA TRAIN

Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, opera singer, left Chicago for Los Angeles last night, eight days after she was operated on here for removal of a goiter. She went directly from Herndon hospital to the North Western station to board the Los Angeles Limited. Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, who performed the operation, said Mme. Galli-Curci was confident that the quality of her voice would be unimpaired. "She will probably be able to sing for the public again in a few months, but it all depends on her adjustment to the changed throat condition," he said.

FALLS FROM PORCH; DIES.
John Hodolits, 29 years old, 4073 Princeton avenue, a barber, died in the County hospital of a skull fracture incurred Saturday when he fell from his second floor porch.

KIDNAPED, NOT A KIDNAPER, HE TELLS POLICE

Raymond Paske, 28 years old, 2734 Evergreen avenue, was held last night by West North avenue police, who nabbed the license number and it was traced to Paske.

Paske declared that he had been in the car alone, and that the two men had approached him on foot and forced their way into the machine. They robbed him of $2.75 and his car and forced him out at Hammond and Armitage avenues, he said. The car, Paul and Pacific railroad on Feb. 18, according to Paske, is still missing.

DICKINSON HITS ROOSEVELT FOR BROKEN PLEDGES

Declares President Is Chief Issue in '36.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—President Roosevelt was charged with having broken campaign promises on seven principal counts by United States Senator Lester J. Dickinson, Iowa, chief speaker at the Milwaukee county Republican committee's picnic at Pleasant Valley park today. In his judgment the President alone will be the issue in the 1936 campaign, he said.

"With all deference to the high office he holds, today, tomorrow, and next year, the issue is, Franklin Delano Roosevelt!" the white haired senator declared.

Lists Seven Charges.
The seven charges that were the speaker's indictment of the President:

1. Repudiation of platform pledges made by the Democratic party.
2. Committing the country to un-sound monetary experiments, condemned by nearly all recognized economists which disrupted foreign trade and seriously injured agriculture and industry.
3. Delaying economic recovery by forcing on the country dubious measures of reform which, by penalizing thrift, strike at the national economy, and by political subsidy under guise of "relief," break down morale and self-reliance.
4. Holding out false hopes to unfortunate workers by passing laws impossible of administration and known to be almost certainly unconstitutional.

Debauch Civil Service.
5. Debauchment of the civil service by employment in federal emergency agencies of an army of political spotters without knowledge or training for posts filled.

6. Indifference to promises of balancing the budget or reducing national expenditures.

7. Blaming the courts for failure of the New Deal.

The Iowa senator, long a foe of the New Deal and an advocate of economy and sound government, turned to the farms of his home state to delineate his criticism of the Democratic administration.

In speaking of crop adjustment of the AAA, he said, "I don't understand this philosophy of getting rich by having less. Out in Iowa the brain trusters ordered hundreds of thousands of hogs killed for fertilizer. Now, if you can eat pork chops you must be in the millionaire class."

Cutting of cotton acreage in the south has only meant that cotton growers there have been paid for not raising what they should have raised, and also has given them a chance to raise corn and other northern crops to take away markets from the middle western farmers.

The senator criticized the relief policies of the administration as ineffective, pointing to Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, as the man "who can get less out of $10 spent for relief than any man I know." The federal relief projects, he stated, had been proved impractical.

"What has been accomplished through federal relief," he said, "is to give thousands of Americans the feeling that they don't have to work. The other day a woman told me, 'If our relief check doesn't come soon my husband will have to get out and go to work.'"

MOTORIZED CAVALRY READY FOR WAR GAMES

Troops from Fort Knox, Ky., bring their armored cars to Pine Camp, N. Y., to participate in the greatest peace time maneuvers ever held by an American army. (Associated Press Wirephoto.)

FIRST U. S. ARMY STARTS ITS WAR GAMES IN EAST

34,000 Men Will Take Part.

Pine Camp, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The army completed its plans today for the nation's greatest war games for which 20,000 additional troops arrived at the Thousand Island country by rail and motor convoy to swell Pine Camp's tent population to 34,000 men.

The famous "iron division," first division of the regular army, all of whose troops are assembled here together for the first time since the world war, will fire the initial gun in the first army's maneuvers tomorrow with a forced march to an attack position against an imaginary enemy.

Last of Troops Reach Camp.
Meanwhile, the last units of the army, about 3,000 men, will arrive from New England. Other National Guard outfits from the 26th "Yankee" and the 43d division, that have been arriving over the weekend, will spend the day in putting the finishing touches to their camp sites.

Major-General Dennis E. Nolan, first army commander, and his headquarters staff spent the day in final reconnaissance. The first division will take to the road tomorrow. Thirteen men were prostrated by heat as they detoured Saturday. In war an army would number about 250,000.

Traffic Control by Radio.
Convoy movements today were carried out expeditiously by the army despite heavy tourist traffic attracted not only by the army maneuvers but by the Thousand Islands region. State Police reported that highways throughout the region were not jammed because of troop movements.

A major portion of the credit was given to an overnight application of the principles of radio convoy control, developed experimentally Saturday in the largest single motor convoy ever handled by the peace time army.

Even New York City's taxicabs, used in large numbers to augment army vehicles for the transportation of troops from New Jersey and southern New York, moved in military formation with for once their blaring horns silent.

KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW.
Nels Searson, 34 years, a laborer, slipped from his second floor window at 707 Buckingham place yesterday morning and was killed instantly.

ROOSEVELT AND LEADERS CONFER ON 'MUST' BILLS

Expect All to Pass; Wind Up Thursday.

maining days of the session," Robinson declared. "It is expected the conferees will reach an agreement on the utility bill and probably on the TVA amendments and that the reports will be agreed to. It is also expected that there will be conference agreements on the alcohol control bill, taxes, and the gold suits bill. If the Guffey bill passes the house, it will be taken up in the senate."

Defeat for Administration.
President Roosevelt three weeks ago told Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Rad. Dem., Mont.) that he would prefer the house utility bill, with its discretionary but not mandatory "death sentence" for companies, to no bill at all. His reported concession at the general legislative conference, however, represents a major defeat for the administration, for he has singled out his most violent attacks and his personal lobbyists have exerted tremendous pressure for the senate bill. One of them, Thomas Corcoran, was accused of threatening to cancel the Passamaquoddy tide harnessing project unless Representative Ralph Brewster (Rep., Me.) voted for the "death sentence."

The President returned this morning from a brief visit to Hyde Park, N. Y., and the congressional leaders were summoned to the White House tonight for their final instructions. Besides Robinson, Harrison, Byrnes, and O'Connor they included Vice President Garner and Representative Robert L. Doughton (Dem., N.C.), chairman of the ways and means committee.

Expect House to Yield.

Senate members were confident that the house would yield on its drastic inheritance taxes, demanded by the President, but rejected in the senate in favor of increased estate taxes reaching a maximum of 70 per cent on fortunes above 50 million dollars.

Also awaiting conference action and probable elimination was the Borah amendment to the wealth confiscation bill, which removes tax exemption from future government securities.

The same conferees on the tax bill are deadlocked also on the federal alcohol control bill, with bulk liquor sales being the major obstacle. The senate bill would not permit such sales.

NEW DEAL LINK WITH LOBBYISTS TO BE EXPOSED

Roosevelt's Aids Pals of
B. B. Robinson.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—New scandals, including one involving the suppression of news exposing close relations of the administration to the utility lobby, will feature the resumption tomorrow of the twin inquisitions of the lobbyists on Capitol Hill.

Senator Ernest W. Gibson (Rep., N.Y.), minority member of the senate investigating committee, said today he will insist upon a thorough airing of the relations between Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to the President, Lawrence W. Roberts Jr., assistant secretary of the treasury, Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth, Tex., publisher and close friend of the Roosevelts, and B. B. Robinson, of Chicago, chief lobbyist for the Associated Gas and Electric company.

Services Suppress News.
If the committee summons Carter he will be questioned regarding influence he is alleged to have brought to bear on the Associated Press, United Press and Hearst's Universal News service to suppress the news revealing the relations of the administration officials with the utility lobbyist. This revelation was reported in no newspaper last Thursday morning except THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

In the house investigation, likewise, the Republican minority was demanding that the searchlight be turned on the operations of Undersecretary of the Interior Charles West, the President's lobbyist, and of Emil Hurja, executive director of the Democratic national committee, who is Mr. Farley's lobbyist.

Representative Carl E. Mapes (Rep., Mich.) said he will insist upon interrogation of West and Hurja, whose activities with those of Tom Corcoran, another Roosevelt lobbyist for the holding company "death sentence," precipitated the entire investigation of lobbying.

Visit Robinson Apartment.
The incident of the suppression of news distasteful to the administration took place last Wednesday when a senate sergeant at arms was searching high and low for Howard C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas, who was wanted by the senate investigating committee.

In the course of his search it occurred to him that Hopson might be found at the apartment of Lobbyist Robinson at the Shoreham hotel. The testimony of Robinson had shown that he generally knew where Hopson was to be found.

Followed by press association reporters the sergeant at arms knocked at Robinson's door. When the door was opened the visitors beheld a scene of revelry, the chief participants in which were Secretary McIntyre, Assistant Secretary Robert, Publisher Carter, and Lobbyist Robinson.

Jolly Party Perturbed.
Consternation seized members of the jolly party when it was realized that reporters were present and presumably would report the thoroughly harmonious relations existing between high officials of the utility bailing administration and the head utility lobbyist.

Attempts to procure the suppression of the dangerous revelation followed. Carter is alleged to have taken the lead in these efforts and to have assumed a lofty attitude in informing the reporters that his influence with their superiors would procure the suppression of the story.

In the course of the altercation the party adjourned to the bar on which which Carter is said to have slapped a blank check to cover the drinks for all indefinitely. Versions of what subsequently happened are in conflict. One is that the incident was not reported by the reporters. The other is that it was reported, but suppressed by press association executives at the instance of Carter.

Story Stirs Sensation.
The exclusive publication of the story in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Thursday morning created a sensation. It was picked up by afternoon newspapers and eventually sent out by the press associations.

There is gossip that the President was irritated by the compromising of the administration and that both McIntyre and Robert may lose their jobs. Punishment of the two officials, however, would involve a degree of unfairness, for the President himself, for all his warring on the utilities, has his pet utility magnates, chief of whom is Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service company, and chairman of the Roosevelt Birthday balls which annually raise millions of dollars for the treatment of infantile paralysis.

Doherty is a frequent guest at the White House. It has been noted as an interesting circumstance that the trade commission's investigation of Cities Service has languished under the Roosevelt administration.

Howe in Other Scandals.
Louis Howe, the President's chief secretary, has been involved in far more serious scandals without forfeiting the President's favor. Among them were the CCC toilet kit scandal and the manipulation of ruling by the radio commission. Also involved in the toilet kit affair was Basil O'Connor, former law partner of the President. O'Connor is figuring in the lobby investigation.

It was revealed that he had a $25,000 retainer from Hopson's Associated Gas. O'Connor is a brother of Congressman John J. O'Connor (Dem., N. Y.), chairman of the house rules committee, whose friendliness to Hopson in the lobby inquiry by the rules committee has caused much comment.

Robert has been under fire before, but has managed to retain his job through his pull at the White House. A former Georgia Tech football star and an architect and builder in Atlanta, he was the first assistant secretary to be appointed in the treasury under the New Deal. He was an acquaintance of Farley, and claims to have known the President through some work at Warm Springs. He did not know his direct superior, the late Secretary William H. Woodin, and was not Woodin's man.

Robert was made assistant secretary in charge of the public buildings division. His first act was to hold up all pending contracts on which bids had been called for or submitted under the Republican administration.

When the PWA board was created in June, 1933, he became a member as the treasury's representative because of his connection with the public buildings program.

On March 15, 1934, or thereabouts, eight months after his appointment to the board, Robert was removed by an executive order of President Roosevelt and replaced by Admiral Christian J. Peoples. At about the same time he was relieved of all connection with the public buildings program in the treasury.

These moves started reports of a "scandal" in the affairs handled by Robert, but the treasury and PWA evaded all questions. His removal was a surprise, although it was preceded by much undercover complaining and charges among the contractors who had to deal with the treasury. They insisted that some one was feathering his own and his friends' nests.

Several such stories preceded Robert's removal from the PWA board. After hanging in midair for some time, he was assigned supervisory powers over the bureau of the mint and the bureau of engraving and printing. The duties are a sham, since both bureaus have run themselves from time immemorial.

BORAH EXTENDS LEAD IN POLL FOR G. O. P. CANDIDATE

First Primaries Only 7 Months Away.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho has lengthened his lead in the unofficial poll on Republican presidential possibilities being conducted by Robert H. Lucas, former executive director of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Lucas made public today further returns from Republican committeemen and other leaders. The replies are from 1,288 of the 2,600 counties in the country.

Frank Knox of Chicago is running second in the poll, Gov. Landon of Kansas third, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois fourth, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan fifth, and for mer President Hoover sixth. The results of the poll to date follow:

William E. Borah.....	313
Frank Knox.....	218
Alfred M. Landon.....	152
Frank O. Lowden.....	114
Arthur S. Vandenberg.....	111
Herbert Hoover.....	68
Ogden L. Mills.....	54
Theodore Roosevelt.....	53
Hamilton Fish.....	46
L. J. Dickinson.....	33
James W. Wadsworth.....	17
All others.....	407

Senator Borah steadfastly declines to comment on the interest developing in his nomination for President. The first presidential primaries are seven months away. If by that time there appears to be an unmistakable demand for his nomination, the senator, it is understood, will consent to be a candidate. Amateur ticket framers are already talking of Borah and Vandenberg for the 1936 race.

LIBERTY LEAGUE HITS "DESPOTIC" NEW DEAL LAWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Asserting lawmaking under the New Deal is tending toward the creation of "machinery susceptible of use by a despotism," the American Liberty league tonight made public a survey of court decisions affecting important laws and policies of the Roosevelt administration.

The survey, of the nonpartisan organization, formed to combat excesses in government, lists the body blows the New Deal has received from the Supreme court and the reverse given brain trusters in other federal courts. "Study of the cases affecting New Deal legislation will show that they do not involve meaningless technicalities," the league stated in a summary.

NEW DEAL FOE WILL TAKE SEAT IN HOUSE TODAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Charles S. Risk, the Rhode Island lawyer, who upset an administration candidate for congress, arrived in Washington today to take his seat in the house.

Tomorrow, on Risk's 38th birthday, Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican leader, will escort him before the rostrum to take the oath of office.

Risk was elected Aug. 6 after a campaign in which he stressed opposition to the processing taxes and the New Deal program as applied to Rhode Island. His election took place in the first district which two years ago went heavily Democratic.

The New Deal defeat prompted widespread political reaction and a Republican challenge to a general election in Ohio. But Gov. Martin L. Davey called the Ohio contest for May, 1936.

JEWISH GROUP CLAIMS FRAUD IN U. S. ZIONIST VOTE

Chicagoan Refutes Charge to World Congress.

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The validity of the American elections to the World Zionist congress, opening here Tuesday, was challenged today when the Jewish State party, dissident group of the extreme right wing Revisionist party, entered charges before the congress court, now in session.

The complaint alleged the elections, held June 24, were "improperly conducted at the polling places" and also accused the Laborites, who received an overwhelming majority of the votes cast, with selling shakel to non-Zionists who promised to cast their vote for the Laborite ticket. [The shakel entitles the bearer to vote at Zionist elections].

Charges Refuted. Letters refuting the charges were submitted to the court by Morris Margulies, secretary of the Zionist organization of America, and Max Shulman, president of the Zionist organization in Chicago.

Leo Wolfson, American Zionist, and chairman of the shakel and elections board which conducted the elections in the United States on June 23, also denied all the charges.

Simultaneously the court was asked to invalidate the eleven mandates won by the Mizrahi Orthodox Zionist Organization in America, on the grounds that the Mizrahi delegates had not contributed to the Keren Hayesod, Zionist colonizing agency and chief Zionist fund.

EXPLAINS PROTEST.

Attorney Max Shulman, president of the Zionist organization in Chicago, explained here last night that the state group of the Zionist movement wants a Jewish state, and not a government like Palestine, which is under control of Great Britain. The State party elected no delegates in the election, Mr. Shulman said.

"The Zionists elected 20 delegates, the labor group, 26, and the Mizrahi, or religious group, 10," he continued. "In order to vote it was necessary to purchase a shakel, an old Hebrew coin equivalent in value to 50 cents, and for every 3,000 shakels, or shakolim, we were allowed one delegate."

1,250,000 Shakolim Sold.

"In all, a million and a quarter shakels were sold and there are 450 delegates to the world congress. There are five from Chicago—Judge Jacob M. Braude, Meyer Abrams, A. K. Epstein, I. P. Feingold, and Mrs. Harry Berkson. Other delegates are United States Judge Julian W. Mack and Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York; Dr. A. H. Silver of Cleveland, O.; Maurice Samuels, journalist; Louis Lipsky, honorary president of the Zionists in this country, and Morris Rotherberg, president of the organization."

who have been trying to say that religious difficulties do not exist in Germany and that they merely are conjured up by the foreign press. Schacht attacked the advocates of cancellation of all German debts abroad.

"In war time and in peace, the terms imposed on Germany by our enemies failed to respect private property," he said. "This sin of the enemy governments can be justly called barbarian. As a German, I do not wish to imitate such barbarian methods."

Promises to Try to Pay.

"We must remember our foreign creditors are private citizens whose property must be respected. They loaned their savings to Germany, trusting her. I regret profoundly that Germany is unable to transfer fully at the present, but I will do everything in my power to fulfill our obligations whenever possible."

Schacht denied that Germany would break down for lack of foreign raw materials, pointing out that she is continuously negotiating for and achieving new trade agreements.

Speaking of the internal situation, Schacht said:

"The main financial difficulties are ahead of us, since we must consolidate

HER CHAIN LETTERS LINK THE FAMILY IN SPIKE OF SEPARATION

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 18.—(AP)

—Every mother's problem—that of keeping informed of her children after they leave home—doesn't worry Mrs. Ella F. Farman, 83. She started a chain letter circle in 1905 which now reaches Minneapolis, Minn.; Seattle, Wash.; Victor and Canon City, Colo.; Amarillo and Wichita Falls, Tex., and Oklahoma City, Norman, Muskogee, and Tulsa, Okla. The cumulative letter averages four round trips a year.

the debt incurred for public works and for the army. These great sums must some time be consolidated with the help of payments by the people and with their savings.

Warns of Vast Expenditures.

"I raise my warning voice. One or another office may think that compared with huge expenditures for public works, a million here or there can make no difference. At a time when we cannot raise the wages of workers, every penny squandered is an unjustifiable burden."

"Big jobs entrusted to us by the fuhrer can be financed only if the people have faith in the security and stability of the bonds of the state and its organizations. It would be suicidal and would endanger public works, the employment of millions and the enlargement of the army if the government harmed the interests of persons who saved their money."

"Therefore, Schacht assured his audience, Germany will not indulge in inflation experiments of any kind."

NEW ANTI-JEWISH ACTS LISTED BY GERMAN PAPERS

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—(AP)—While Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, in an address at Koenigsberg today denounced "unregulated individual acts" in the Nazi drive against "state enemies," zealous newspapers again published listed reports of anti-Jewish acts throughout the country.

At Oestreich, it was announced, Jews were declared by a municipal order to be "unworthy of traveling on the German Rhine." They were forbidden to buy steamer tickets.

In Pomerania public notices attached to power line towers through the countryside reading, "High Tension—Danger!" were supplemented with the words, "Jews, beware!"

GERMANS PLACE 1ST PAIR OF NEW U BOATS IN USE

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The first of Germany's new submarines, the U-1 and U-7, have been placed in service at Kiel, the official marine Verordnungsblatt announced today. It said also that the artillery school ship Brummer and the escort vessels F-1, F-2, F-3, and F-4 have been launched, and the dispatch boat Grille placed in active service. The submarines were constructed under the Reich's new naval program.

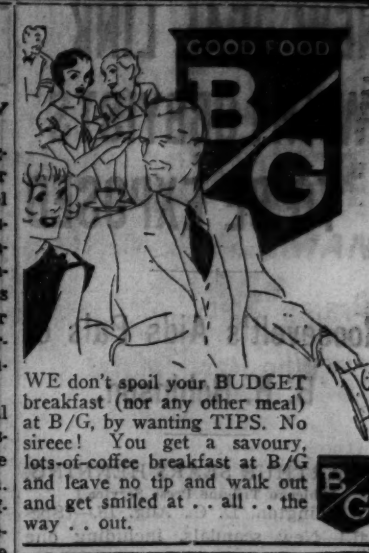

At the same time the German Aero-technische "Physikern" journal published an article by Chief Surgeon Wolfgang Schmidt of the Reich ministry requiring all young or aspiring physicians to do military service in addition to labor service.

PRIVATE MENTAL TEST OF ZENGE TO BE ASKED TODAY

Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court will hear this morning the petition of counsel for Mandeville W. Zenge for permission to have a private alienist examine the defendant. Zenge, the farmer-carpenter of Canton, Mo., is charged with the mutilation murder of Prof. Walter J. Bauer, who married Zenge's fiancée, then Miss Louise Schaffer.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Goghan, who will prosecute the Missouri farmer, said yesterday that the state would not oppose the petition. He pointed out that Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, who examined Zenge at the time of his arrest, has given opinion that Zenge is sane.

Attorneys Joseph E. Green and Joseph R. Roach, who represent Zenge, said that Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, alienist in the Loeb-Leopold murder case, would make the examination. They asserted that the examination does not necessarily mean that their client will rely on an insanity defense.

STEVENS COLLEGE WARDROBE STEVENS

Frocks like these will have all the fun at informal parties— and dates in town— College girls!

JUST leave it to these girls in our College Wardrobe to put you right on new fashions to take back to College!

Reading from left to right: Marjorie Hollahan, St. Mary-of-the-Woods, and Alice Holmes, Chicago, "go for" the new front fullness of this silk crepe dress.

Jane McIntosh, Northwestern, and Barbara Bischoff, Illinois, say the crinkle crepe with rhinestone ornaments is divine for a sorority tea.

Catherine Hepburn, Vassar, and Jane Lundahl, Wellesley, are crazy about the angora wool jacket frock with flying squirrel revers for town dates.

June Wilson, Northwestern, says there's no end to the possibilities of this silk crepe jacket frock. Without the jacket it's dressy enough to go dancing!

FOLK WHO MADE MUSIC FESTIVAL READY FOR NEXT

Praise Spirit of 10,000
Who Participated.

Another Chicagoland Music Festival—the sixth—slipped into the pages of the musical history of the middle west yesterday and 10,000 men, women and children who had participated in the great colorful pageant of harmony looked forward to next year's festival.

In the vast bowl of Soldiers' field, 90,000 persons jammed Saturday night to hear and see the great musical festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers. Only a heavy rain that fell late in the afternoon and threatened for a time to force the postponement of the city's greatest musical event, kept the attendance below last year's record crowd of 100,000.

Greatest of Six Spectacles.
But the program with its rich pageantry of marching bands and drum corps—solos and choruses, dancers and fireworks—was considered the best in the six year history of the festival.

Typical of the spirit of the 10,000 persons who participated in various phases of the festival was that of the 1,000 girls who presented the dance spectacle "Fields of Daisies." Drilled for weeks by Miss Betty Jones, Mrs. Ernie Schultz and Miss Mayblossom Macdonald, the girls insisted upon going onto the rain soaked field although festival officials said they did not have to. A number of them lost their dancing slippers in the mud, but "the show went on."

Victory for Glee Club.
For the members of the Green Bay, Wis., Y. M. C. A. Glee club this year's festival marked the end of a five year quest for honors in the men's chorus competition. Four times previously they have come to Chicago without winning. The Erie, Pa., All High School band, unsuccessful in its first attempt, asked for the judges' sheets so that it can prepare for next year's contest.

The Egyptian Choral club, typical of the out of town organizations, stayed over in Chicago yesterday for a day of sightseeing. The club, whose 135 members are drawn from five southern Illinois counties, is directed by Frank Trobaugh, West Frankfort, attorney. Many of the choristers earned their trainfare to Chicago by working in Mr. Trobaugh's peach orchards.

Miss Nell Stuart of Champaign, who won the women's singing contest, will enjoy the first taste of fame tonight when she appears on the program of the Northwestern over W-G-N from 9:30 to 10 o'clock.

The festival this year attracted music critics and promotion managers of a score of newspapers. G. H. Doory of the Omaha, Neb., World-Herald, which is sponsoring a similar musical event next week-end, was an interested spectator.

FERRIS ON WAY TO PRISON FOR REST OF LIFE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—(AP)—William Lee Ferris entrained tonight under a heavy guard for the Michigan branch prison at Marquette, where he will serve a life term at hard labor for the murder of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney.

Ferris had parted earlier in the day with his wife, Violet, the child born to her since his arrest June 30, and his mother-in-law. At first he refused to see them when they came to the county jail for a last farewell. When they were admitted he spoke to them gruffly, declining to take the infant in his arms.

"Nothing but a miracle could save me now, and I don't expect any miracles," was his parting remark to jail attendants.

Three women convicted with Ferris of the murder of Dickinson, a nephew of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, already are serving life terms. They are Florence and Loretta Jackson, sisters, and Jean Miller.

Follows Brother in Death Before Assassins' Guns

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Anthony Palamara, 32, was killed today by a volley of assassins' bullets. It was the end he had feared since his brother, Marcantonio, known as "Mike the Undertaker," was slain in similar manner sixteen months ago.

Object of Threat

THELMA TODD.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—An apartment house superintendent was under arrest today in connection with extortion notes said to have been sent Thelma Todd, motion picture actress, threatening her life unless she paid from $10,000 to $20,000.

The arrest was made Saturday by agents of the federal bureau of investigation and followed some months of inquiry. The suspect was booked as Harry Schimanski, 34.

The extortion notes, agents said, were sent from Feb. 2 to Aug. 12 of this year. Similar notes, they said, were sent to Abe Lyman, orchestra leader, also threatening Miss Todd's life.

BOO FISH WHEN HE ASSAILS EPIC PLAN OF SINCLAIR

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—While police guards and a fire department hose truck stood by to quell any disorders, Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep., N. Y.) and Upton Sinclair, novelist and former Socialist, discussed their widely differing philosophies before 10,000 persons in Hollywood Bowl today.

Although the crowd, apparently predominantly sympathetic toward Sinclair, "booed" lustily when Fish urged the election of a Republican President as the way out of what he described as the depression, there was no attempt at physical arguments, and the police and hose truck were not called into action.

Fish described Sinclair's "end poverty in California" movement, based on production-for-use, as "100 per cent socialism."

UNION PAINTERS IN OHIO DEMAND GENERAL STRIKE

Columbus, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The Ohio State Council of Painters urged William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight to call a general strike to "prevent governmental destruction of trade union principles."

The action was taken after the council approved withdrawal by the Cincinnati Painters' union of members from Works Progress administration projects and advocated a similar policy by all locals and councils in Ohio. The union protested wage scales of the WPA.

The council also sent a protest to President Roosevelt.

Nephews of Capt. Tobin Stabbed in Knife Fight

Daniel Tobin, 28 years old, 7816 South Honore street, and his brother, Charles, 23 years old, 6330 South Loomis street, nephews of Police Captain Michael Tobin of the Englewood station, received serious stab wounds yesterday morning in a quarrel in front of a tavern at 5911 South Ashland avenue with a man known only as "Shoes." At the Holy Cross hospital where they were taken, Charles Tobin was reported out of danger, but Daniel's condition was reported as serious. He has three deep wounds in the abdomen.

U. S. TO ARRAIGN DRAKE ESTATE SUSPECTS TODAY

Arraignment of defendants in the Sir Francis Drake estate swindle, which in some form or other has been used by confidence men for more than two hundred years, is scheduled for this morning in federal court. Last April the federal grand jury indicted thirty-nine men and four women for using the mails in the fraud which was said to have taken more than $1,000,000 from 270,000 "investors."

Among the defendants is Oscar M. Hartzell, the Iowa promoter who is now in federal prison for fraud.

Federal officials were not certain yesterday how many of the forty-three have been apprehended and are under bonds. Hartzell, who was deported from England two years ago, was brought here yesterday from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., by Deputy United States Marshal Steve Cusack. His brother, Canfield Hartzell of New York City, will be one of those arraigned.

The alleged swindle consisted of selling shares in the mythical estate, it was explained. Fifteen years ago the then state's attorney, Macley Hoynes, broke up a gang of swindlers who had sold thousands of shares in the Drake estate. Hartzell and his associates started in the same racket a few years later, officials asserted.

Hartzell was convicted in Sioux City, Ia., on twelve charges of using the mails to defraud. In his trial it was shown that Sir Francis Drake, admiral and adventurer of the Elizabethan period, died childless in 1595 and bequeathed his landed property to the son of his elder brother.

The Hartzell group claimed that there was a son by a third marriage of Sir Francis Drake, that he was the rightful heir, and his descendants were rightful owners of a half billion dollars worth of property.

The "investors" were promised $1,000 for every $1 invested, when the rightful heirs came into the property. Federal prosecutors say there never has been any litigation in England on the Drake estate, which consisted of a modest farmstead.

JURY STANDS PAT ON SUBPENA FOR IOWA GOVERNOR

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Woodbury county grand jurors and Gov. Clyde Herring both remained firm tonight in their opposing stands on whether he is immune from grand jury summons.

The governor is under order to appear here tomorrow.

Iowa statutes give the governor the right to ignore the subpoena, Herring asserted, retorting that he has no intention of answering the order.

Grand jurors differed and through Special Prosecutor H. M. Havner announced the issue would be carried to court if Herring is not on hand.

LAWYER ASSERTS WIFE'S HEEL PUT HIM IN HOSPITAL

Hudson avenue police were called to the Passavant hospital yesterday morning to make an accident report on an injury to Irving S. Adler, 3300 Sheridan road, a member of the law firm of Lederer, Livingston, Kahn & Adler. He asserted that his estranged wife, Mrs. Marbee Adler, 23 years old, struck him on the head with a sharp heeled slipper when he sought a reconciliation.

Mrs. Adler has been occupying an apartment with a friend at 1400 Lake Shore drive since separating from her husband last Tuesday, she told Policemen Fred O'Neil and John O'Brien. When her husband burst into the apartment and threatened her, Mrs. Adler declared she struck him and drove him away.

Since their secret marriage last summer, Mrs. Adler asserted, their domestic life has been unhappy. Mrs. Adler said she left her husband because he refused to take her out among his friends.

COLORED CHIEFS OF SOUTH SIDE HOLD MEETING

Three hundred representatives of a score of colored organizations met at the Pilgrim Baptist church yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Negro National Chamber of Commerce. They discussed social and economic problems of the colored community on Chicago's south side and planned a permanent organization. Speakers included A. L. Foster, executive secretary of the Chicago Urban league; A. C. MacNeal, president of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People; the Rev. R. C. Keller, religious editor of the Chicago Defender; the Rev. J. C. Austin, pastor of Pilgrim church, and Mrs. Helen O. Brasher, president of the Chicago Association of Colored Women. Arthur Turner, president of the Negro Chamber of Commerce, presided.

GORGEOUS PELTS FROM WORLD-FAMOUS MARKETS GLORIOUS MODELS FROM WORLD-FAMOUS CREATORS

It took us months to lay our plans for Fall, 1935, and then months to carry them out! For these plans took us to every center in the world where the finest furs are found. To the Hudson Bay Sale in London where we purchased our exquisite collection of Canadian Minks and Persian Lambs. To Vienna where we procured our glorious Baum Martens. To Soyuzpushina in Moscow (fur headquarters of the Soviet Government) where we purchased opulent Kamchatka Sables and natural Solongois. And back to America for the purchase of a big collection of Government Alaska Sealskins.

Then to the Salons of the great creators for fashions worthy of our fur purchases. To Horovitz of Vienna and London; to Fourrier Max, Schiaparelli, Vionnet and Lelong of Paris, and to the famous Fur Fashion Show at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

The result is a collection of top fashions in original and copy—slim new swaggar coats—fitted, flaring tunics—swinging capes—deft, suave dressmaker coats with new tricks in collars, clever sleeves, ingenious fastenings.

And the grand sum total of it all is that these are yours this month at August savings. DON'T MISS THE AUGUST SALE OF FURS

U. OF C. MEN FIND SYRIAN-HITTITE CITY OF 1100 B. C.

Uncover Noteworthy Art in Ruins of Capital.

Discovery of the ruins of a local capital of the Syrian-Hittite world that flourished from 1100 B. C. to the invasion of Alexander the Great in the fourth century B. C. was announced yesterday by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago.

Dr. C. W. McEwan, field director of the institute's Syrian expedition, who recently returned to this country, reported the discovery. A royal palace already has been uncovered in the mound in north Syria, about midway between Alexandretta and Aleppo.

Outstanding Art Specimen.

The most interesting single find at the diggings was that of a double-lion column base—two crouching lions whose backs supported a column at the entrance to the palace. Dr. McEwan said it is one of the finest examples of Hittite art yet found.

"The Syrian-Hittite culture was a composite of Hittite, Aramean, Phoenician and Assyrian elements," Dr. McEwan said. "The discovery of a capital of this people will bring new light to bear on a most interesting period."

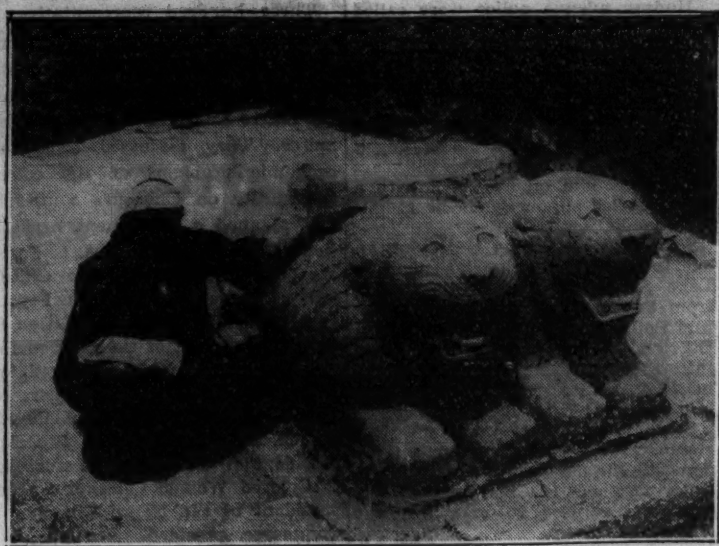

According to Dr. McEwan, a native foreman of the expedition which has been excavating two other mounds in the vicinity, was riding into Antioch, 25 miles away, when he noticed two carefully cut blocks of basalt in the deep ditch beside the road.

A Native Appreciates a Clew.

He recognized these as important clues. When members of the expedition investigated, they found huge column bases of a type characteristic of royal buildings of the late Hittite period.

It then was discovered that natives of a nearby little village had been digging into the mound for the ancient burned bricks which the natives used in repairing their highways.

UNEARTHED IN ANCIENT CITY

This "double lion column base," one of the finest examples of Hittite art yet discovered, was found by the Syrian expedition of the University of Chicago's Oriental Institute in an ancient royal city discovered by the expedition near Antioch in north Syria.

FILM CAPITAL MAKING PLANS FOR MEMORIAL

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Plans were laid today for a permanent memorial here to Will Rogers. Although arrangements for the funeral depend on the wishes of the actor-philosopher's family, assurance was given that widespread tribute would be paid to him throughout Hollywood and Los Angeles.

In Beverly Hills where Rogers was once mayor, a committee was selected to arrange memorial services and prepare a permanent symbol of the esteem in which Rogers was held. This will take the form, said the committee, of something such as a fountain, grove of trees, or a chapel.

In Los Angeles, Dr. Cleveland Kleihauer, president of the Church Federation, said clergymen of numerous denominations eulogized Rogers in their sermons today.

Although there has been no formal announcement, it was indicated all motion picture studios will be closed on the day of Rogers' funeral.

ROB ICE CREAM PLANT OF $500.

Three robbers, one with a sawed-off shotgun, took $500 yesterday from the safe of the Western Ice company, 5800 Ogden avenue, Cicero, after forcing the manager, Paul Krausch, 41 years old, 4336 Grand avenue, Western Springs, to open it.

CHEROKEES IN WEST PLAN ANCIENT RITES OF CHIEF FOR ROGERS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The ancient funeral rites of the Cherokee Indians, a ceremony performed only at the passing of a chieftain, will be invoked by Cherokees here for the late Will Rogers, if his widow gives permission.

Clarence Davis, head of a southern California delegation, said today his people are awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Rogers before preparing for the ceremony.

"She will understand that there are among us a few old men who know the correct ritual," Davis said. He said Cherokees have always considered Rogers a tribesman.

"Saxon blood flowed in his veins," the Indian said. "But we like to think it was the Cherokee in him that helped to make him great and unfraid."

ILL. ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

Apparently dependent over illness, Harry Tomber, 45 years old, a painter, inhaled gas yesterday through a rubber hose attached to the gas range in the kitchen of his home at 2710 Putnam avenue.

which eventually might have taken them to Siberia, Iceland, and Greenland.

Near Point Barrow Thursday afternoon the motor of Post's plane misfired just after a takeoff and the craft fell 50 feet to the bank of a shallow river. The noted aerial travelers were killed probably instantly.

Friday night Crosson flew to Point Barrow to begin probably the longest funeral journey ever undertaken by air—approximately 3,600 miles from Point Barrow to Los Angeles.

In Seattle S. E. Robbins, Pan-American pilot, was ready to relieve Crosson at the ship's controls and continue the flight with the bodies to Los Angeles.

After bringing the bodies to Fairbanks Crosson landed his pontoon equipped plane on the Chena river and taxied to the landing where a Fairbanks mortuary staff took charge of the remains of the dead humorist.

In other cities throughout the nation movements were under way to name airplane landing fields and other places for either Rogers or Post.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Will Rogers, her daughter, and two sons entrained at 2:05 p. m. today in a private car attached to the Pennsylvania Limited for Chicago, en route to the coast to meet the body of their husband and father.

Besides the children, Mary, James and Will Jr., the party included Mrs. Rogers' sister, Miss Theda Blake, and her nephew, Jimmy Blake.

Before boarding the train the grieving group took a short drive through

MITES FOR ROGERS WILL BE PRIVATE; 2 P. M. THURSDAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Private funeral services for Will Rogers will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Wee Kirk O' the Heather in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Arrangements for the funeral, the cemetery announced today, were made by J. K. Blake, a brother of the widow, and three sisters, Mrs. H. L. Adamson, Mrs. A. M. Ireland, and Mrs. Zuleika Stroud.

It was only last year in the Wee Kirk O' the Heather that the funeral was held for Marie Dressler, a close friend of Rogers. The efficient handling of that service prevented disturbances such as occurred in New York at the funerals of Rudolph Valentino and Lillian Tashman.

Admission to the Rogers funeral will be by card only.

In addition to Miss Dressler, another close friend of Rogers, Florenz Zeigfeld, is buried in Forest Lawn. Rogers had charge of his services at the request of the widow, Billie Burke.

Members of the Rogers family asked Forest Lawn officials to obtain the Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher of the Glendale Baptist church to officiate if possible, at the services.

In the central mausoleum of the cemetery, Rogers' sculpture and stained glass, the body of Rogers will be placed in a temporary receiving vault pending final disposition.

Tells of Recent Chat with Rogers in Alaska

Mrs. Charles A. Felt, 53 West North avenue, returned yesterday from Juneau, Alaska, and told of talking with Will Rogers there on Aug. 7, the day before he resumed his ill-fated flying trip into the northwest. She went to Juneau to settle the estate of her brother, Eugene Owens, Alaskan mine owner, who died on May 20. Mrs. Felt said she and Mr. Rogers talked about the Democratic national convention here in 1932 which both attended.

CHURCH RITES FOR POST

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Wiley Post will be buried in Memorial Park cemetery near here, probably next Thursday, the distinguished aviator's widow decided late today.

Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist church with the Rev. W. R. White, pastor of the church, and the Rev. J. H. Gardner of Sentinel in charge.

The time of the service will be governed by arrival of the body. The arrangements outlined today superseded prior plans for services under a shady grove in front of the farm home of the flyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Post, near Maysville.

Mrs. Wiley Post was flown here from Poncha City today in a private plane. After completing funeral arrangements, she left for Maysville to be with Post's parents until the day of the funeral.

BULLETS TAKEN OUT OF BRAINS; BOTH MEN LIVE

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Two men with bullets in their brains could chuckle tonight and say "It takes more than that to kill a Missourian."

Physicians said Detective Tom DeGraff, 43, of Joplin, and Probate Judge Tom Meador, 47, of Monett, might live for years.

DeGraff was shot June 22 in a gun fight with Glenn Dixon, 18, alleged extortionist, whom he killed. Meador was wounded June 27 by a youthful assailant.

WILL ROGERS, COWBOY HUMORIST HIS LIFE STORY

BY CHARLES COLLINS.
CHAPTER TWO.

THE manager of the theater came running back-stage after Will Rogers, the cowboy amateur, had spoken his first words across the footlights and said:

"One laugh like that is worth a dozen rope tricks. Can you give us more chatter like that in the next show?"

Rogers guessed he could; he went back to his dressing room to read a newspaper and scribble a few notes for comic remarks—they were called "nifties," not wisecracks, in the theatrical slang of 1905—on the back of an old envelope. In the next performance he produced five laughs instead of two—and one of them was accidental. He addressed the audience seriously, but it laughed at him, and Will felt annoyed and embarrassed.

Learns Self-Satire.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "I want to call your sho-nuff attention to this next stunt. I'm going to throw these two ropes at once, catching the horse with one and the rider with the other. I don't have no idea that I'll make it, but here goes."

This touch of self-satire was sincerely uttered. The trick was so difficult that Rogers missed it five times out of ten. Nevertheless the audience accepted it as a stroke of comedy, and thereby the amateur vaudevillian learned that all he had to do to amuse the customers was to dramatize himself. The moment marked the transformation of an amateur rope-thrower into a professional comedian.

His first pay envelope contained $50, but he soon was earning $150. He appeared in the important vaudeville theaters in New York; he went on tour as a head-liner on the "big time"—the Keith and Orpheum Circuits, which were national in scope; he became known in the land.

Ten Years in Vaudeville.

The vaudeville period of Will Rogers' career was extended. It covered exactly ten years. He apparently had settled down into a life in which he might continue for the rest of his life, or until he retired with his savings and bought a cattle ranch somewhere on the prairies with which he never lost spiritual contact. He was a regular vaudeville trouper, following a way of life that was apart from the glitter and publicity of the upper branches of the theater—the Broadway shows, the so-called "legitimate" stage.

As a vaudeville performer he was particularly popular among newspaper men. His line of talk, on the stage, had a kinship with their work; his comments on public figures and current affairs were the sort of things they thought but didn't put into print as they were reporting the news of the day. He made many friends among them, but never tried to exploit these friendships for his professional advancement.

At Ease in Any Group.

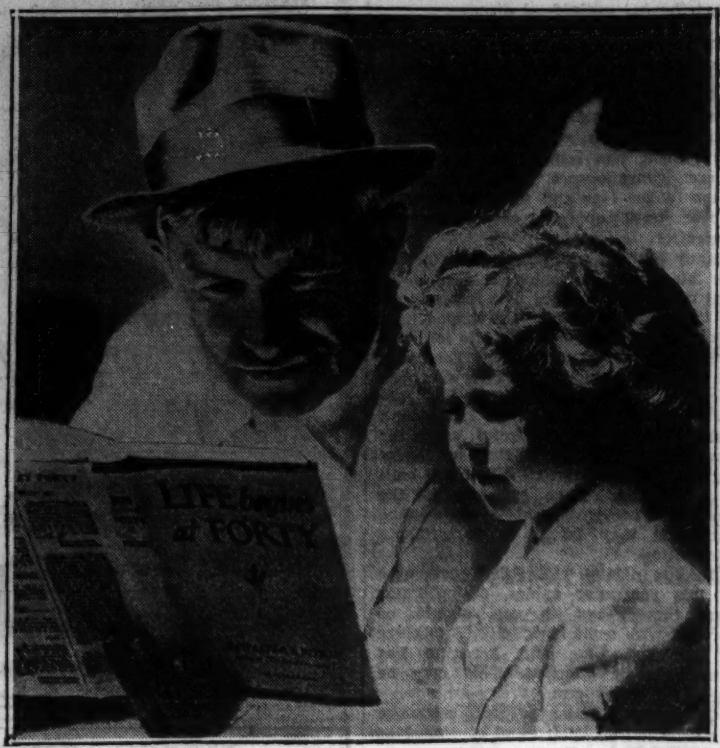

Rogers, in fact, had a genius for making enduring friendships—the easy, congenial associations that exist for their own value, involving no give-and-take of favors. He always was at ease in any group, always whimsical, kindly and unpretentious. Ranch hands, cub reporters, variety performers, actors, adventurers, politicians, ambassadors, presidents—he met them all on an equal footing, making thousands of friends and never an enemy. He probably is the only satirist in history whose targets did not take offense at his raillery.

Only a few years ago he suggested the following sentence as an epitaph for his tombstone:

"I joked about every prominent man in my lifetime, but I never met one I didn't like."

To return to the history of his stage career: He emerged from vaudeville on July 15, 1915, as a performer in a Broadway summer show of the revue type called "Hands Up." He was programmed as Cowboy Will. This engagement was a step up the ladder for him, and therefore the premiere was an important occasion in his career. It happened that he nearly failed; if the audience had not been on his side, as opposed to the stage manager, he probably would have been dropped out of the company in a few days.

Rogers' act was "spotted" between two full-stage musical numbers which meant that he had to give his exhibition on a narrow strip of stage before a curtain. He did not have room enough to swing his ropes

Will Rogers, victim of plane crash in Alaska, here seems to be telling Shirley Temple that after her period of child stardom and young womanhood she'll arrive at the age of 40, when life will really begin.

In the usual manner. At his climax and most effective trick he missed twice because the curtain behind him caught his rope. He was preparing to try again when the stage-manager, in a panic, rang down the drop-curtain.

Faced Disgrace, Failure.

This, to a theatrical performer, was like the fall of the guillotine's blade. It meant failure, utter disgrace, the loss of an engagement, perhaps a permanent blight on his career.

The audience, however, refused to accept this stroke of luck. They liked Will Rogers, even if his rope tricks fizzled. It applauded, applauded, applauded, testifying to a determination that the program should not continue until the comic westerner had completed his act. Fair play for Cowboy Will was the cry from the customers in no uncertain manner.

The stage manager quickly realized the mood of the first-nighters. He recalled Rogers and lifted the drop that had blighted his turn, giving him adequate space for his rope-work. Cowboy Will grinned sheepishly, shook his dangling forelock at the audience in appreciation of its loyalty, and did his last and hardest trick at the first attempt.

"Discovered" by Gene Buck.

"Hands Up" was a Shubert production, and perhaps Florenz Ziegfeld was not in the audience, for the Shuberts and the Erlanger allies were bitter rivals in those days, not fond of visiting the camps of the enemy. Among the first-nighters, however, was Gene Buck, song-writer, composer of many of the "Ziegfeld Folies" hits, and a diligent Ziegfeld scout. He reported to his chief that Will Rogers had the stuff that "Folies" customers wanted.

Two years later Will Rogers began the association with the Ziegfeld revues which was to make him a figure of national theatrical importance. But even at the start he wasn't afraid to jest with the "Folies" tradition. One of his remarks to the audience at the Broadway premiere was:

"A first night at the 'Folies' is quite a function. Every one brings his new wife to see the old one act."

ROGERS' VIEWS ON LIFE AFTER DEATH ARE TOLD

Preface for Book Bares His Philosophy.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Some of Will Rogers' thoughts on the hereafter were recalled today from the pages of a book written by his old friend, the late Charles M. Russell, Montana cowboy artist.

Russell died several years ago as he was about to complete the book, "Trails Flowed Under," a collection of reminiscences of the old west, illustrated by his own paintings and line drawings. The book was published last year.

Rogers wrote the introduction in the form of a letter to his old friend in the other world. It was done about nine years ago.

"Aint Much News."

With characteristic modesty Rogers disclaimed the ability to write an introduction. Continuing, he said:

"There aint much news here to tell you. You know the big Boss gent sent a hand over and got you so quick Charley. But I guess He needed a good man pretty bad. I hear they been working short handed over there pretty much all the time. I guess its hard for Him to get hold of good men, they are just getting scarce everywhere x x x."

"Busy With Old Penell."

"x x x I bet you hadn't been up there three days until you had cut your old pencil and was a drawing something funny about some of their old punchers. x x x I bet you Mark Twain and old Bill Nye, and Whitcomb Riley and a whole bunch of those old joshers was just a waiting for you to pop in with all the latest ones, what kind of a bird is Washington and Jefferson I bet they are regular fellows when you meet em aint they? Most big men are."

"I would like to see the bunch that is gathered around you the first time you tell the one about putting the limburger cheese in the old nestors whiskers. Dont tell that Charley until you get Lincoln around you, he would love that, I bet you and him kinder throw in together when you get well acquainted, darn it when I get to thinking about all them top hands up there, if I could just hold a

YOUNG WILL ROGERS, OKLAHOMA ORPHAN, 7, TREASURES A PHOTO

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Will Rogers, 7, stood disconsolately today before an autographed picture of the late humorist at the Baptist Orphan's home.

"Mr. Will," he said, "I'll never get to see you, but anyway I've still got your picture."

Officials at the home did not know the orphan's name, so they named him for the famous Oklahoman. Last winter the boy wrote Rogers about it and there was a prompt letter of reply accompanied by the photograph.

Little Will doesn't have the letter now. It was worn out by the handling of many hands. But orphanage officials said it wished the boy lots of good luck and happiness and expressed the hope he would grow up to be a fine young man.

horse wrangling job with em. I wouldn't mind following that wagon myself. x x x

"Old Dad Up There."

"You will run onto me old dad up there Charley, for he was a real cowhand and I bet he is running a wagon, and you will pop into some well kept ranch house over under some cool shady trees and you will be asked to have dinner, and it will be the best one you ever had in your life, well, when you are a chawking the women folks, you just tell the sweet looking little old lady that you know her boy back on an outfit you used to rep for, and tell the daughters that you know their brother, and if you see a cute little rascal running around there kiss him for me. Well cant write you any more Charley dam papers all wet, it must be raining in this old bunk house."

"Of course we are all just a hanging on here as long as we can. I dont know why we hate to go, we know its better there. Maybe its because we havent done anything that will live after we are gone."

"From your old friend, 'WILL.'"

DR. TOWNSEND IN AIR CRASH, BUT FLIES ON

Pittsburg, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Dr. F. E. Townsend, author of the old age pension plan bearing his name, escaped injury today when an airplane in which he was riding crashed into a row of trees and fence posts. The plane was badly damaged.

The plane slashed into five trees, uprooting one of them, knocked down five fence posts and ended with its cabin split wide open, but Dr. Townsend and Edward J. Margott of San Francisco, state manager of the Townsend clubs, emerged unhurt.

Another ship was obtained immediately and Dr. Townsend and Margott took off for Los Angeles via Oakland.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

COMES THE REVOLUTION—AND HOW.

V.—OH, MARIE ANTOINETTE! THEY ARE EATING CAKE.

The governmental corporations, authorities, and administrations of the New Deal are the component parts of the new collectivist state. They are its organs, limbs, and vertebrae. Articulated, they give it form, life, and movement.

The aggregate of the corporate and administrative powers conferred outside the old government departments is the measure of the new giant. Here and there an old line cabinet member and departmental secretary doubles in character. He is part in the old and part in the new. The big concern is the new one. It has the money. The bonds are issued for it and it issues its own bonds. The new taxes are intended for it. The American government has become twins. There are already two governments inherently hostile to each other. The biology is abnormal. One twin is a parasite. The old American government still carries the mails and has charge of foreign affairs. It maintains the army and navy. It issues patents and coins money. It holds its courts and administers bankruptcy laws. It operates under the old constitution, but is a separate entity and already an inferior one. Alongside it and superior to it is the socialistic state of the Roosevelt-Kerensky revolution.

Until the Supreme court killed the NRA the collectivist democracy of corporations and administrations, the parasitic state, could make criminal laws in its codes as freely as congress could make them in its statutes. There were two legislative authorities, one not representative and elected. The socialistic corporation state still levies taxes, borrows money, and appropriates it. Its appropriations are misnamed allocations. Congress votes, as in the work relief bill, 4 billion 880 million dollars. That is in no sense an appropriation by congress. It is merely a draft on the treasury. The socialistic corporation state then appropriates—allocates—as it sees fit. Money bills actually begin when congress ends. Control of the purse, which is real sovereignty, is with the state of corporations and administrations.

Further illustration of the sovereign powers of the corporation state is found in the AAA, which by the processing method levies taxes. In 1933 the old government of the United States could have lived on the taxes the agricultural administration has taken off the table and off the backs of the American people in cotton, wheat, and meat taxes. The fact that a new government is in existence is quite apparent. It is wholly different and distinct from the old one. It is a separate entity in reality and has its separate organic existence. It has all the new powers; it gets the big money and it is growing.

It recognizes itself as a corporation. The monthly treasury report is a "combined statement of assets and liabilities of governmental corporations and credit agencies of the United States." The assets are in banks, railroads, insurance companies, credit unions, building and loan associations, live stock credit corporations, mortgage loan companies, agricultural credit corporations, cooperative associations, states, territories, and municipalities, joint stock land banks, ship construction, mortgages, crops, live stock, and commodities.

The corporation owns the preferred capital stock of banks and trust companies, insurance companies, and railroads. It has outstanding total loans of 7 billion 850 millions. Two subsidiary corporations, home loans and federal land banks, have loans of 4 billion 700 millions and issue their own bonds. The plaster the socialistic corporation state has on the country is 5 billion 447 millions. As pin money it has 100 millions in ship construction and reconditioning. It has a billion 5 million invested in banks, mortgage and loan companies. The aggregate capital stock of the socialistic corporation is 7 billion dollars.

This new political organization, the Kerensky-Roosevelt state, must be distinguished from the old American government. Their interrelation and cooperation do not make the two one flesh and blood. They are distinguished from each other by their very nature. They are opposites and no one could expect that they would permanently exist together. One is within the framework of the constitution, the other is outside it. The President and congress have switched their allegiance to the new government. The Supreme court stands by the old one.

The Roosevelt revolutionists had a strange break of luck. They were in the money from the beginning. They were in before any one knew they were trying to get in. They've been eating cake from the start.

In due time the voters must decide between the twins. If they vote for socialism they will go into the halfway house which Mr. Roosevelt will build for some stronger man to move to some other location, either Fascist or communist.

A TALE OF TWO CONSTITUTIONS.

Commissioners from the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and the Methodist Protestant church, meeting in Evanston, have drawn up terms on which the three denominations might unite. The work of the commissioners will not be binding until it has been ratified by a two-thirds majority in each of the three general conferences and by a three-fourths majority of the total votes cast in the annual conferences.

From this it appears that the requirements for changes in church organization are substantially parallel to the requirements for amendment of the federal constitution. Changes are not to be made on the spur of the moment. They are to be undertaken deliberately, and only in response to an overwhelming popular demand.

Some socialistically minded churchmen seem to favor revolutionary changes in our political constitution without waiting for the formalities of amendment, yet in the sphere of their immediate interest they have been careful to preserve the safeguards against haste, ill-considered and impulsive decisions. A distinction is drawn. It would be interesting to know how and why.

HOPSON'S CHOICE WAS ALSO JOLIET'S.

A great deal of publicity has been given to the legal fee of $25,000 which was paid to Basil O'Connor by Mr. Hopson's Associated Gas. Only a few lines in the metropolitan papers—certainly not as much space as the subject deserves—have been devoted to the $10,000 fee which Mr. O'Connor received from the city of Joliet, Ill.

It seems that Joliet had some $450,000 on deposit in the Joliet National bank when it closed its doors several years ago. The city wanted to obtain preferential standing for as much of its deposit as possible. The city hired a Joliet lawyer, Mr. J. W. Faulkner, to present its claim to the federal officials concerned. Mr. Faulkner did not get to first base.

Joliet wanted its money and somebody said a good way to get it was to retain Basil O'Connor, formerly President Roosevelt's law partner. The partnership was established in 1924 and lasted until the President took office in 1933. Basil's brother John is a highly influential member of congress. He is chairman of the rules committee of the house. It might be observed, parenthetically, that a man's brothers are handed to him, but his law partners are deliberately chosen for congeniality of temperament, and heredity and environment have both been kind to Basil.

Basil's connections can be described as picturesque. Reports of his legal learning favorably impressed the burghers of Joliet and they contracted to pay him, so they say, 10 per cent of any priority he could obtain.

It didn't take Mr. O'Connor long to get preference for $48,000 of Joliet's deposits. Ten per cent of $48,000 is $4,800. The matter might never have come to public attention if Joliet, in a burst of gratitude, had not sent Mr. O'Connor a check for $10,000. When recently the city's accounts came to be audited, somebody discovered what appeared to be an overpayment. The city attorney wrote to Mr. O'Connor, calling his attention to the matter and asking for the return of $5,200. Mr. O'Connor replied that the check looked all right to him at the time he had received it and still looks all right. Very truly yours.

There the matter stands for the present, at least. Students of the law may wonder wherein Mr. O'Connor's legal presentation on behalf of Joliet differed from that of Mr. Faulkner, the home town boy. What deficiencies in Mr. Faulkner's argument were supplied by Mr. Roosevelt's former law partner, the brother of the chairman of the rules committee of the house? Somebody ought to ask Mr. Faulkner about it. He ought to know.

Editorial of the Day

CUBA SELLS AND SENDS.

(St. Paul Dispatch.)

Cuba is well satisfied with its reciprocal trade treaty with the United States which became effective Sept. 3, 1934. Under this agreement this country reduced its tariffs upon specified importations of Cuban sugar, tobacco, rum, and fresh vegetables, and Cuba granted compensating concessions upon American commodities in corresponding periods before and since the treaty became effective. Purchases of machinery and related supplies, electrical machinery, supplies, and household appliances showed increases ranging from 12 1/2 to 100 per cent, steel products recorded gains of 47 per cent and railway supplies, including locomotives, showed an increase of 33 per cent. There is European competition in automobiles whose total sales increased 85 per cent while imports of American cars increased 94 per cent, indicating that the chief benefit of the tariff adjustment came to American manufacturers. Sharp reduction in Cuban duties on foodstuffs brought increases of from 30 to 70 per cent in those imports. The greatest gain was shown in purchases of American agricultural machinery and implements, which leaped upward 558 per cent. This was due to the stimulation of the important Cuban sugar industry by reduction of the United States tariff.

For both business and sentimental reasons, trade relations between Cuba and the United States should be intimate and mutually profitable. The Cubans got into a situation where they were spending less here because they were selling less. By lowering export and import barriers, Uncle Sam seems to have helped himself through helping a customer.

BAD POLICY.

Hungry and tired after his long walk, weary Willie at last came to a wayside cottage. "Please, ma'am," he said to the kindly woman who came in answer to his knock, "could you spare me an old coat?" The cottager looked down at the tramp's garments. "But my good man," she said, in tones of deep surprise, "the one you are wearing is nearly new." "I know, ma'am," said Willie despairingly. "It's this coat that's ruining my profession."—Toronto Globe.

NOW TO THE SLEEPING GARDEN.

Now to the sleeping garden I am sent
Until the last earth-hunger shall be fed;
The ancient pattern of my discontent,
Is known but to an inventoried dead.

The overtones of flowers in the dark—
Articulation of the falling leaves,
Are well known to the liberated lark,
A salvaged treasure when the summer grieves.

Vocabulary of the willow tree
Is heavy on its tongue, but when it talks
As though returned from some far Calvary
I move again upon my garden walks.

Let those who will stand stricken in the street—
I'll tie my lilies with the golden wheat.

WHILE RHL IS OUT OF THE CITY.

Dear Wake-Line: In the spring of 1895 Frank T. Fowler, bicycle manufacturer, gave a dinner at Hotel Normandie to cycling writers of the trade papers and daily press. Dick Little and Sherman Duffy, both on THE TRIBUNE, on the way to the dinner decided to exchange names, although Little was tall and Duffy was short, and so were introduced to Mr. Fowler.

Now Fowler, wise in his generation, suspected something phony but accepted the situation. He parked Duffy, as Little, at his right in the place of honor, and parked Little, as Duffy, way down the line.

When the talkfest came Duffy was called upon to speak as Little and gave a brilliantly humorous talk and the crowd cheered long and loud for the great humorist, Little. Dick then thought it only fair to explain the respective identities, but the gang hounded him down and would have none of his correction. Thus he subsided and remained Duffy to the end, except to those who knew. That was 40 years ago. Little and Duffy are still in harness. I wonder how many of the others?

POOR FIDO!

HTW: One of the New Delights in Washington gave a luncheon to some 10 or 12 ladies. Mushrooms were to be served and the maid remarked she hoped they were "all right." Whereupon the lady said, "Give some to the dog and see what happens."

An hour and a half later Fido still was frisky and lively, so the mushrooms were served. Just as the group was sitting down to an afternoon of bridge the maid called the lady aside and whispered, "Fido is dead."

Horried, the hostess told her guests what had happened. One of them, wife of a doctor, phoned her husband and a corps of medics rushed over with stomach pumps. After all the guests had departed, considerably upset by apprehension and stomach pumps, the unhappy hostess asked the maid, "What did you do with poor Fido?" "He's still in the street, mum, where the truck ran over him."

AVOID THE BLACK WIDOW.

THE black widow (Lactrodectus mactans) spider appears to be in a biting mood this summer. At any rate, reports are fairly frequent, and at least one death has occurred. This "deadly female" secretes a venom more potent than that of the rattlesnake and the symptoms caused by its bite are exceedingly severe.

The insect is readily recognized, as the body is coal black and is marked on the abdomen with patches of red and occasionally yellow. The red areas often have the appearance of an hourglass. The male is harmless and plays an unimportant rôle. The body of the female is about half an inch in length and when the full grown legs will stretch over a two inch area. Because of the peculiar construction of the body it is sometimes known as the shoe button spider.

From the coloring and the fact that the female devours the male, the insect is called the "black widow." In other words, she is a widow by choice. The web is coarse and irregular and is usually found in dark, dimly lighted areas such as the rafters and corners of little used buildings, garages, basements, attics, and outdoor toilets. Several eggsacs are generally found suspended in the web, and each may contain 600 or more eggs.

In order to study the effect of the bite of this vicious insect, A. W. Blair of Atchafalaya, Ala., permitted a full grown black widow spider to bite him on the little finger of the left hand. The incident occurred at 10:45 in the morning. Within 25 minutes the entire hand was aching and slightly numb from the little finger to a point above the wrist. A few minutes later the pain had spread to the inner surface of the upper arm and the wounded finger was dark, purplish red, and swollen. The pain continued, involving the entire arm and the left half of the chest. By 11:30 there were some pains in the stomach. A blood count showed an increase in the number of white cells, and the pulse was somewhat weaker than normal.

Symptoms increased rapidly in severity and pain in the muscles extended to the neck. There was also a pronounced feeling of prostration. Soon the weakening of the pulse was quite marked and the rate dropped from 75 to 62 per minute. At this stage the patient was removed to a hospital, where the respiration was noted to be quite rapid and labored. Speech became difficult and jerky, and the abdomen was hard and boardlike.

During the next hour the severity of the pain was agonizing. The patient was unable to stand, a pronounced tremor was evident, and the general appearance was that of an individual in profound shock. The blood pressure dropped from 106 to 75 systolic and the rate increased until it could not be counted. At this time Blair was placed in a hot bath, which was followed by some amelioration of the pain.

The severe symptoms continued until approximately 2 P. M., at which time a slight abatement was noted. Restlessness, which continued throughout the day, was relieved by the administration of morphine.

The larger hospitals quite generally are now equipped to give the treatment. In many it is given in the physiotherapy department by physicians skilled in the use of the apparatus for the treatment of the patient. STABLE MUST BE SCREENED.
Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to report a barn with two horses in it located on the rear of a residential district. This barn is not screened to prevent flies from spreading disease. The smell from it is terrible.

Please be advised that due to a former complaint a notice was served upon the apartment to screen properly all outer openings to the stable so as to exclude flies. This notice will be followed up until compliance with our order has been obtained.

GUARD RAIL ON STAIRWAY.
Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can you inform me [1] if there is a state law which compels a landlord to install a guard rail on an open stairway in a house? 2. If there is no guard rail in the house and a tenant is injured in falling down the stairway, what recourse has the tenant?

G. J.
1. No, there is not. 2. Depends on the facts as to negligence on both sides.

IS NOT CITIZEN.
Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—My mother is desirous of becoming a citizen. She entered this country in 1902 and has since taken out a first paper. She is under the impression that there was an act of congress passed in the last several years whereby all persons who entered and remained in this country since 1907 are entitled to citizenship. 1. Will you please advise me if such is true and if not (2) what steps she should take to be naturalized?

L. B.
1. It is presumed the inquirer means that such persons become citizens automatically. This is not correct, as an alien does not automatically become a citizen by mere length of residence in this country.

2. It is stated that the mother has since taken out a declaration of intention (first paper). It is assumed that her husband is not a citizen. In that case if her declaration of intention is at least two and not over seven years old she may apply for final papers. Otherwise she should file a new declaration of intention and wait until the

TAX DEFAULTS EXPLAINED.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Your very pertinent editorial this morning gives warning to the local taxing authorities that they cannot continue to spend 90 per cent of the estimated tax collections when as a matter of fact they are only collecting 60 to 70 per cent of the amount. A major cause of the failure to collect a larger percentage lies in the fact that there are thousands of pieces of real estate in Chicago and Cook county where taxes are not being paid because accumulations of unpaid back taxes and penalties are so great that it is no longer worth while for the owner to spend the necessary amount even if he happens to have the money. These properties are not of the type where income can be collected through Skarda proceedings and with numerous exceptions lie for the most part in three main categories:

1. Subdivision lots and other vacant.
2. Properties mostly in older districts where the improvements have been wrecked and where back tax accumulations are based on buildings which no longer exist.
3. Properties, mostly in older districts, where the building is deteriorating and where the owner, because of the back tax liability, has decided to spend nothing further in betterments or repairs and has adopted the policy of taking every cent possible out of the property with the idea of ultimately allowing the building to become uninhabitable and finally demolished.

The property in these three categories represents a tremendous loss in current and future taxes, which is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $25,000,000 a year. The collection of back taxes on these properties is not important, as there are few outstanding warrants or unpaid bills payable out of them, but on the other hand it is of the utmost importance to the community and to property owners who are meeting their tax obligations that future taxes be paid on these properties.

The Illinois legislature, in the recent past, passed a law, which has made an attempt to restore some of these properties to the tax rolls by allowing all penalties to be remitted on back taxes, to and including 1932, and by providing for payment of the arrears in seven annual installments, but, strange to say, the county authorities are strongly opposing the operation of the law. But even this remedy would salvage only a small part of the properties in question, for the overwhelming majority legislation must be immediately passed which will allow, as is done in other states, the tax accumulations to be compromised and reduced to the extent that it will be worth the while of the owner, or of some purchaser, to pay current and future taxes, thereby giving needed income to the community and reducing the ever increasing burden of the solvent property owner.

THE SIX DAY WEEK.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Since I am a composite of gardener, stationary engineer, and watchman, with an internationally known manufacturing establishment, the passage of the recent state six day a week labor bill intensely concerns me. It is because I am a watchman that the bill is beyond my comprehension?

The bill, as I see it, is to enforce a six day working week on those who have always exercised this God-given right and exempts the only ones who always work seven days a week, namely, stationary engineers, janitors, firemen, watchmen, dairy workers, etc.

I am of the opinion that the real purpose of this bill is to confuse the laborer. The state legislators, who are well aware of the fact that the average worker rarely familiarizes himself with the details of any form of legislation that becomes a law, are attempting to cultivate the sympathy of labor by misrepresentation in passing this most senseless and useless bill.

NUT SUNDAY.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—In THE TRIBUNE editorial on wealth sharing you refer to Louisiana and some others as backward states.

I have spent many years as a soda dispenser in most of the southern states and many eastern, northern and western states, and thus have met and catered to a cross-section of people from most American communities. I was for years top soda man of one of the world's leading hotels right here in Chicago's loop. For sheer natural backwardness, uncouthness, unprincipled, uncivilized, brutish, unintelligent specimens of humanity composing a state, your own native and imported citizenry, right here in Chicago and Illinois, takes the cake. I have met and learned to know them all, and all the people of all the states are impoverished. Some need money, while others need enlightenment. Which is the greater need?

TAXES ON LIQUOR IN ILLINOIS PROVE RELATIVELY LOW

Survey Compares Levies of Forty States.

Illinois takes about half a cent for taxes on a drink of spirituous liquor. Missouri takes one cent; in Indiana, Wisconsin, or New York slightly more than one cent, and Colorado nearly two cents. Other states take varying sums. All the state taxes are in addition to the tax of $2 a gallon on distilled liquors taken by the federal government.

The maximum state liquor tax is $1.60 a gallon in Colorado. Several states impose 40 cents a gallon, which is the minimum except in the case of 10 states which collect no liquor taxes. Most of these 16 states, however, have a state monopoly on liquor sales, taking all the profits.

These facts are disclosed by the Distilled Spirits Institute in Washington, D. C., in a survey which shows the status of liquor taxes in forty states, the District of Columbia, and five territories and possessions where the sale of spirits is authorized.

A second survey made for the American Legislators' association here estimates that these taxes will bring nearly $145,000,000 into state treasuries this year. In 1934-'35 New York received $41,490,000 from excise and license taxes, a per capita revenue of $3.20. Topping the list of anticipated annual revenue among states operating liquor stores is Ohio, with an expectation of $16,191,000. Michigan, with a state controlled liquor dispensary, anticipates $7,579,000, or $1.50 per capita.

Low Beer Tax in Illinois. Illinois, California, and Wyoming impose the lowest tax per barrel on beer, about 62 cents, according to the Washington survey. The highest barrel tax imposed is in South Carolina, about $4.72. Virginia with $2.75, North Dakota $2.52, and Ohio $2.50, are runners-up. The average beer tax runs between $1 and $1.50 a barrel.

Illinois has only three gradations for taxes on liquor and wine: 50 cents a gallon for all liquor, 10 cents a gallon for wine of 14 per cent or less, and 25 cents a gallon for wine over 14 per cent.

Indians pay $1 a gallon tax on liquor and all wines over 21 per cent, and bottled spirituous mixed beverages over 15 per cent. There is a tax of 25 cents a gallon on bottled spirituous mixed beverages of 15 per cent or less and wine of 21 per cent or less. Beer is taxed 3 1/2 cents a gallon.

Wisconsin Schedule Complex. Of all the states, Wisconsin has the most elaborately detailed liquor and wine tax system. For liquor of more than 21 per cent alcoholic content there are nine gradations covering containers from 2 ounces to 128 ounces, which are taxed from 19-16 cents to $1. Beer is taxed $1 a barrel. Missourians absorb a state tax on their liquor of 80 cents a gallon. For wine over 14 per cent the tax is 15 cents a gallon, less than 14 per cent 5 cents a gallon. The beer assessment is 3 cents a gallon.

New York's tax structure is similar to that of Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri.

The Empire state imposes $1 a gallon on spirits of 24 per cent or more and 50 cents on spirits of less than 24 per cent. Still wine calls for a tax of 10 cents a gallon, artificially carbonated, 20 cents a gallon, and natural sparkling, 40 cents a gallon.

States Without Liquor Laws. Iowa and Michigan impose no excise taxes because the state controls their liquor depots. But the beer tax per barrel is practically the same, $1.24 in Iowa and $1.25 in Michigan, which has also an inspection fee of 25 cents a barrel.

The other states which impose no liquor tax are Idaho, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Canal Zone, and Hawaii.

Urges New City Bureau to Wreck Unsafe Buildings

The demolition of all unsafe buildings and the establishment of a city bureau to wreck them were urged yesterday by the Chicago safety council. More than 2,000 buildings have been razed in the last year, but hundreds more menace public safety, the council reported. According to the council, some owners have refused to destroy buildings after they have been condemned and boarded up.

Holds Church Fort

THE REV. EMMA HUSSUNG.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 18.—(P)—With the church barred and victuals for a siege, the Rev. Emma Hussung preached out of the side windows of Sunnydale reformed edifice to a photographer, two reporters and ten worshippers who stood in a drizzle today. The collection of $1.85 was handed in a back door.

Three guards, who accompanied Mrs. Hussung with a 22 rifle, and two county patrolmen stood by to prevent disorders. About 100 persons, mostly neighbors and members of the regular Sunnydale congregation were nearby. She was ousted as pastor, because of her sex, three years ago.

"I invite you to come and worship in this place," the woman pastor began her sermon from the window. "The time has come when the Lord wishes me to take back my place and I will let no man stand in the way," she said when she returned to church Friday. She claims the building on the ground, that she is still president of the corporation which built and owns it and adds that she did so after that was ordered by a supernatural voice.

WARNS AGAINST "WATERING" OF NATION'S STOCK

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Revolutionary elements in the United States are watching "with satisfaction the path we now are treading," Louis K. Comstock, president of the Merchants' association of New York, warns in a pamphlet to be distributed to members tomorrow. It is entitled, "Watering the Stock of the United States."

This country, he maintains, must decide now on one of two roads, the first, "toward which our wheels appear to be rolling," being one that "leads most certainly to inflation and economic destruction. The other, he says, is the difficult road of balancing the federal budget. Expenditures should be the first point of attack, in the author's opinion."

By June 30, 1938, according to his computations, the federal obligations will be 30 billion dollars in excess of cash resources, and the total of federal and state debts will be 50 billion dollars.

Recalling that conditions compelled a check on municipal and state spending, the pamphlet goes on to say: "The federal government, with credit at its disposal which some of our New Deal enthusiasts seemed to think is unlimited, stepped into the field. The orgy of spending went merrily on and the expansion of the public debt, which for a short time was at least wavering, began to increase by leaps and bounds."

The debt of the city of New York, plus its share of the state and national debts, Mr. Comstock writes, burdens this city with a debt load of 3 billion 650 million dollars, or $488 per capita. He recites a survey that disclosed that two and one-third months' rent a year goes toward payment of taxes on property rented in this city.

ASSAILS AAA BILL FOR REGIMENTING POTATO FARMERS

Council Executive Decries Russianization.

Passage of a bill by the national house of representatives last week provides for the control of potato production under the Agricultural Adjustment administration was termed "another step toward the Russianization of agriculture" yesterday.

The bill, which awaits senate concurrence, was attacked by Str. ley F. Morse, executive vice president of the Farmers' Independence council, which maintains headquarters at 166 West Jackson boulevard. The council was organized recently by farmers of the middle west to combat the well financed propaganda of the AAA.

Sees Measure as Last Straw. "This act which would place 3 million potato producers under compulsory control may be the final straw that will break down the whole vicious structure of the AAA," Mr. Morse said. "The history of all attempts to legislate prosperity for agriculture by governmental control of farmers' rights points to the eventual failure of scarcity economics."

The new legislation would place potato growers on the same basis as cotton and tobacco producers. An elaborate system of crop quota allotments and marketing agreements would be created under the act. In its passage the farmers' council saw further evidence of the New Deal policy of agricultural regimentation, which the council's officials fear may end in state and communal farms on the soviet model.

History Shows Evil Effects. "Farmers who are supporting the AAA programs have been led to believe that the government could bring them prosperity through wonder-working restriction plans and fat subsidies," Mr. Morse said. "Actually history shows that these schemes are disastrous."

Mr. Morse pointed to the creation of a vast surplus and record low prices through the Stevenson rubber restriction plan; the collapse of sugar prices brought about by the huge crops of nations that refused to participate in the world sugar control agreement; the increased world supply of coffee and the resultant drop in prices after Brazil destroyed 36 million bags of coffee.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Fiber and the Future.

Aug. 18, 1935. TOO many middle west farmers are producing food crops and too few are producing non-food crops. The Tribune's farms are attempting to aid in remedying this situation by furthering the search for new fiber crops and by testing out, under present day conditions, crops that once were probably raised in this country.

Three fiber crops, hemp, flax, and crotalaria, are being grown in the test plots at The Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton. Hemp and crotalaria were both successfully grown at the Tribune Yorkville farm last year. Cotton, another important fiber crop, also is being grown for exhibition purposes. All of these crops—cotton, hemp, crotalaria, and flax—have made a fine showing so far. Blossoms have begun to open on the cotton. Most of the blossoms have opened on the J. W. S. fiber flax, and seed have begun to form. Seed are forming on some of the hemp plants. The fiber variety of crotalaria is now blooming.

A few of the plants in the hemp plot are eleven feet high and many are at least ten feet tall. The hemp seed was sown on May 10. It usually takes about three months for the crop to reach maturity. The plants still are green. Hemp can be grown from ocean to ocean and from the

The meeting will bring together leading authorities on soy bean production, marketing, and new uses to which this product is being put. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has been invited to speak at a dinner on Wednesday evening at which a soy bean menu will be served.

OXEN BOUGHT AT FAIR USED DAILY ON FARM

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The yoke of oxen that James E. Dugan of Rock Island purchased at A Century of Progress in Chicago more or less as a joke a year ago, have found a fitting place in the farm life on one of Rock Island county's most modern farms owned by Dugan. The daily chores for the primitive farm animals include pulling farm implements from low sheds and replacing them daily. The shed roofs are too low for horses. Dugan has under construction six silos which he says will be the largest in either Illinois or Iowa. Each will be 24 feet in diameter and 50 feet in height, with a capacity of 500 tons of silage each. Dugan feeds 2,000 head of cattle.

JUDGE, DEFYING THREATS, TALKS IN HOME TOWN

U. S. Agents Protect Otis at Hopkins, Mo.

Hopkins, Mo., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis tacitly answered threats of personal violence from farmers infuriated by foreclosure sales in addressing a homecoming gathering at this country town today.

Armed department of justice men attended, however, under orders to see that no harm befell the calm, sturdy jurist. Townspeople and farmers of the Hopkins area made up the small, friendly audience.

Orders Grand Jury Inquiry. The Kansas City judge was threatened with a beating by mob leaders who blocked two foreclosure sales in northwest Missouri during last week. He ordered a federal grand jury investigation of disorders at a scheduled Plattsburg, Mo., sale.

"My father and his father," Judge Otis told his listeners, "were farmers, American farmers. I know of no prouder title. They depended upon themselves. They feared God and only God. They loved their country and obeyed its laws. I rejoice that I am here with you today."

Judge's Home Town. "Nothing could have kept me from coming to this little town where my mother lives, where my father died." Of the foreclosure disorders at Plattsburg and Maysville he said: "It is not proper for a judge to discuss any matter that may later come before him."

The warning, "We'll do the same to Judge Otis if he goes to Hopkins," came from brawny, unidentified men who disarmed officers and beat two mortgage company representatives in demonstrations for revival of the farm mortgage moratorium, held unconstitutional last May.

Calls Trees Too Weak. Referring jokingly to the threats against him, Judge Otis scanned the trees of the grove in which he spoke and said: "I see no limbs strong enough to hold up a 175 pound man."

MAJOR DROUTHS 300 YEARS APART, SCIENTIST SAYS

Cites Vanished City of New Mexico.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Drought was blamed today for the decline and fall of an ancient American nation.

A determination by Dr. A. E. Douglass of Steward observatory at the University of Arizona of weather prevailing centuries ago was made today by the National Geographic society.

Vast areas of the great plains became a desert six centuries ago. The change caused abandonment of a settlement of forty villages in the Chaco canyon region of New Mexico, the largest of which was Pueblo Bonita, a building of 1,000 rooms.

Site of Vanished City.

Today, the society says, the area is a semi-arid treeless waste in which agriculture is almost impossible. About 700 years ago and earlier, however, a pine forest flourished there and the soil produced sufficient crops to support a large population.

Evidence of these facts was found by Dr. Douglass in a study of tree rings. One is put on each year by a growing tree, and its width determined by the supply of moisture available. The most ancient records were obtained from old logs used in the construction of the pueblos.

Some of the old logs overlap in age with living trees and series of rings in both, formed in the same years, can be matched. The old logs, in turn, overlap in age with others still older so that yearly rings can be counted backward for 1,200 years.

Drought Every 300 Years.

Dr. Douglass thus determined that wet and dry weather occurs in cycles with a major drought occurring once

Downstate Girl to Be Bride of Frank O. Elliott

Mother Tells Engagement of Edith Rammelkamp.

BY JUDITH CASS.
OF interest to Chicago society is the announcement Mrs. Charles Henry Rammelkamp of Jacksonville, Ill., is making this morning of the engagement of her daughter, Edith, to Frank Osborne Elliott, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ramsey Elliott of the Drake hotel and the Glen View club.

Miss Rammelkamp, an attractive and charming young woman, has visited in Chicago numerous times as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott. In fact, the news of her betrothal to young Mr. Elliott has been expected for some time. Her father was the late President Rammelkamp of Illinois college.

Mr. Elliott is a graduate of Princeton university and for the last several months has been associated with the Elliott State bank in Jacksonville. This bank was founded by his grandfather.

Mildred Louise Mudge Engaged to Britisher.

When Miss Mildred Louise Mudge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Hinckley Mudge of Evanston, prolonged her visit last winter with her aunt, Mrs. Herbert D. Ward of Beacon Hill, Boston, her many friends here wondered if she might stay there permanently. Today their suspicions are confirmed, with the announcement of Miss Mudge's engagement to a young Englishman, Philip Clifford Tapley, who is now located in Boston.

The wedding is to take place some time in November at the chapel of Emmanuel church in Boston, where the couple are to make their home. Miss Mudge is a member of the Evanston Junior league and a graduate of the Monticello seminary. She also has spent a year at school in Cannes, France. Mr. Tapley is a son of the late Arthur George Tapley and the Hon. Isobel de Murrier Tapley of London. Mr. and Mrs. Mudge and their daughter are spending the summer with Mrs. Ward at her home in Maine.

Roberta Storms Sets Wedding for Sept. 7.

Such glamor has been woven around Sept. 7 that another young lady has decided to join the throng of debutantes and brides on that early autumn Saturday. She is Miss Roberta Storms, daughter of Mrs. Tina Storms, and she is to be married to Maxwell Elmer Runyon, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. William Darrow Runyon of Sioux City, Ia. In the Church of the Redeemer, The Rev. Edward S. White will perform the ceremony at 5 o'clock. It will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's mother at 5470 Cornell avenue.

Mrs. Frank Herbert Warren III, was to become the matron of honor, but because of the recent birth of a daughter, she has dropped out of the wedding party. Miss Patricia Vail will be maid of honor and Miss Jane Parker of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will be bridesmaid. Lawrence Avery of Sioux City, Ia., will be best man, and Connor Laird and Guthrie Curtis, classmates of Mr. Runyon's at the University of Chicago, and Harry Van Llew of Bloomfield, N. J., and William Grandy Jr. of Sioux City are to be ushers.

Mr. Runyon and his bride will motor to Mexico on their honeymoon and from there will go to Berkeley, Cal., where they will make their home.

Mrs. Storms and her daughter are now at Lac du Flambeau, but they will be at home in about a week.

George Braun to Wed Pittsburgh Girl Friday.

After tomorrow George Braun no longer will be a member of Chicago's young bachelor set, for he is leaving for Pittsburgh, where on Friday he will claim as his bride Miss Sarah Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Davis. Mr. Braun's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Scudder, are to leave Wednesday or Thursday for a honeymoon abroad. Mr. and Mrs. Braun will live on the near north side.

After their surprise wedding in Waukegan Saturday night, James W. Alsdorf and his bride, the former Miss Barbara Brach, established temporary residence yesterday in the home of her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Kirstein, 124 Greenleaf street, Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Kirstein sailed for Europe a few hours before the wedding, which forestalled a formal north shore society ceremony that had been planned for October.

Mrs. A. L. Upton, grandmother of the bride, said yesterday at the Kirstein home that the elopement was "quite all right."

"We all expected a formal wedding, of course, but to resort to slang, they beat us to it," Anthony J. Alsdorf, 650 Lincoln avenue, Winnetka, father of the bridegroom, said. "They seem to be happy about it, so it is agreeable to us."

Young Mr. Alsdorf, a graduate of the Wharton school of finance of the University of Pennsylvania, is a director and secretary of the importing firm which his father heads. His bride was graduated from Roycemore in June and recently returned from a European trip.

Film Producer Splits Bonuses with His Stars

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Myrna Loy's drawing the national spotlight once more to Hollywood salaries has revealed a rare instance wherein a star shares the profits of his producer whenever he is loaned out.

The fortunate star is Henry Fonda and he is fortunate because his services are in great demand since his sudden bid for a leading spot in the screen firmament. He is under contract to Walter Wanger, who produces for Paramount release. The impression got out that Wanger kept all the "overages" from his contract players when they were loaned out.

Fonda went to Twentieth Century-Fox on loan to make a couple of pictures and he is now working in the Lily Pons film at RKO. It is the custom among the studios that whenever talent is borrowed a bonus is paid to the studio holding the star's contract. These are called overages. Fonda's contract is for forty weeks a year for five years at so much a week, and when he appears in a Wanger production he receives this salary. But in event he goes to another lot he splits all overages with Wanger.

This is said to be the case with all Wanger contract stars. True, there are similar cases at other studios, but these ordinarily involve the giving of bonuses which are voluntary on the part of the company and not compulsory.

MUNICH, Germany.—Officials in the city wear Hitler mustaches; out at the Nymphenburg on the west side of the city, the old castle guards and guides still wear Kaiser Wilhelm mustaches.

In the park at Nymphenburg is the hunting lodge, one of four enchanting pavilions, called the Amalienburg, built by Karl Albert for his wife, Maria Amalia of Austria. It is called by many the most exquisite building in the world, and was built in 1734 by the Frenchman Cuvillies, a genius whose gifts were used by Bavarian electors to beautify Munich. The Amalienburg is considered the high point of the rococo movement. It is a tiny white palace, with a circular gilded grille on the roof, and with beautiful windows and busts in medallionlike niches over the door. The last time I saw the Amalienburg I saw only the exterior; this time we went inside. First to the gunroom, a tiny semicircular room paneled in blue and white, with kennels painted blue, cut into the wall beneath the gun cupboards, for the spaniels.

There are only three rooms—tiny ones—besides the main hall, which is a large octagonal room of palest aquamarine, dripping with silver and paneled with mirrors. A fairy tale room, exquisite beyond description. In addition there is a blue and white kitchen, its walls and ceiling of Delft tiles; the antiquated stove and an oven also faced with tiles.

Big Audience Greets Opera Aided by City

Opening Pier Performance
Well Applauded.

"PAGLIACCI" AND
"CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA."
Presented by the Chicago Municipal Opera company on its first performance in Navy Pier auditorium Sunday, Aug. 18. The casts:

"PAGLIACCI"
Noddi Lucia Diano
Canio William Green
Tonio Milo Luka
Silvio Giuseppe Bonadimelli
Beppo Giuseppe Cavallero
"CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA"
Santuzza Frederica Savini
Lola Marie Barova

Turiddu Blaise Stewart
Alfio Milo Luka
Conductor, Dino Bigalli.

BY EDWARD MOORE.
Opera assisted by the city came to Chicago last night, and if a first performance gives any evidence it will remain here for some time. For the 3,500 seats in Navy Pier auditorium were filled almost to complete capacity, and there was applause to match the attendance.

Wherefore William Green is entitled to two separate plaudits of his own, the one as artistic director of the enterprise, the other as the singer of Canio in the first opera. He would seem to be possessed of the wise idea that the way to make opera popular is to present it with an experienced and able cast, and to have the other departments equally competent.

There was a chorus about thirty strong, all of whom have known every note of these operas for years past. There was an equally expert orchestra under Mr. Bigalli's capable hands. There was a well built and well lighted stage in the section of the auditorium that ordinarily contains an unadorned platform. And there were the two casts printed above, every member of whom seemed destined to be singled out for special applause at one time or another during the evening. Mr. Luka being entitled to a double amount since he appeared in both operas.

The pier, with its air cooling system provided by Lake Michigan, is a popular place at this time of year, and the presence of these opera performances should make it even more so. It is an agreeable way to spend an evening. Unfortunately the hour was growing too late to permit the hearing of the second work.

The two works will be repeated to-night. On Saturday and Sunday nights the bill will be "Lucia di Lammermoor," though its cast has not yet been made public.

Max Bendix will conduct his band in the Grant park band shell tonight. The soloists will be Lawrence Salerno, baritone, and Ernest F. Pechin, cornetist, both well known in the concerts of station WGN. The program:

1. Fantasia, Symphonie Poem, "Phaeton" Saint-Saëns
2. Rurals Hungarian Dohnanyi-Bendix
3. (a) Toreador Song from "Carmen" Blaise Stewart
(b) A French Song Costa
4. Cornet Solo Mr. Salerno
5. Mr. Pechin.

Fur Trimmed Red Wool

Here's a dress from a Chicago collection of young clothes for modest budgets. American beauty red soft wool fashions a slim semi-tailored dress trimmed with sleek black galyak fur. Covered fur buttons trim the sleeves and hold an inverted plait in place.

Plaid and Checked Woolens Create Stir in Fashion World

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Just as exciting as a new hat, and with the same "lift" for any wardrobe, the newest woolens are going fast. The biggest plaids and checks in years are blazing in big bolts. Every new shade of gold and brown from coppery gold to deep, rich ginger tones are plentiful. Some of the most lustrous reds that have been untried in seasons of reds and wines are ready for the shears and cutting tables of those who "make their own."

You can find expensive woolens that are as decorative as anything in imported silks and satins. For instance, there are two patterns in black and brown that will make you spend every cent you possess. One is a soft fuzzy wool with rows of fringe of the wool woven right in the yardage. A Mrs. Kit Carson sort of a material at first sight, but unquestionably one of the most outstanding imported fabrics ever displayed. The other find is the same tone of brown with the soft black wool liberally covered with huge French knots.

What we did find that is news, is jersey . . . bolts of the stuff in all rich street shades for fall, deep red, sapphire blue, bronze-green, and, of course, deep brown and navy. And lots of high fashion gray shades. Also what all the designers are screaming about, natural jersey in iron gray tone.

Jersey dresses are the big surprise of the fall showings, revived models made with those youthfully plaited short skirts and simple blouse tops. This natural jersey is used for campus clothes, with bright trimmings, such as buttons, belt buckle, and velvet ascot or tie in such vivid shades as emerald green, henna, peacock blue, and the same kind of contrasts in bold checks and bright Scotch plaids.

Good Morning!
"Death flies on swift wings to him who seeks the tomb of the high priest, Ameli."
So reads the Egyptian lettering on the stone slab that guards the sarcophagus of a certain sacred Egyptian mummy. But—
I ask you what chances have fates and sphinxes
When aligned again Hon'able Charlie Chan's—thinkers?

The answer is, of course, none whatever.
As you know, the Chan stories are all detective yarns in which the great oriental sleuth pits his clear cut reasoning against the evil brain workings of wrongdoers, and, eventually, clears away the cobwebs of mystery that their deeds have wrought.

In this number Chan reveals how and why a certain famous archaeologist has vanished from the scene of his labors, and brings to justice the person responsible for a sinister series of events.

Mr. Oland is at his quiet, astute best. Supporting players turn out commendable performances and the action moves interestingly in a finale that's bound to prove satisfactory to admirers of Charlie Chan.

See you tomorrow!

ter-in-law, Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne, who have had a glorious holiday on the continent and in England, are boarding the Majestic Wednesday in Southampton for home. It may be that Mrs. Crane will have a brief visit in Washington before she comes back to open her handsome Lake Shore drive house.

Business is bringing Philip D. Armour back to this country on the same boat, but the rest of his family is remaining over for a few weeks. When the giant Normandie draws up to its new pier in New York's East river today, it will be bringing home Robert Hall McCormick and his son, Robert Hall McCormick III.

Mitchell D. Follansbees

Sail for Home Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbees will have had about six weeks in European capitals, for they went over early in July. They are coming home on the Ile de France, sailing Wednesday. Among all the Chicagoans who treated themselves to foreign vacations this summer there was no one any more excited at the prospect than Miss Frances Jeffrey, who was a debutante last year. As soon as she finished her school year at Vassar her aunt, Miss Frances Winson, took her across on the new Normandie. They are due back in this country Aug. 25 on the Italian Rex.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Busch are completing their holiday with a motor trip through the Italian lakes and a visit to Rome and Naples, so they too will be coming home late this month by the mild southern route. As a perfect climax to their two months abroad Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neil Cowham are motoring through the picturesque Dolomites. In another week they will be on shipboard.

Castles and Norths

Arrive Early This Week.

Mrs. A. M. Castle with her twin daughters, Josephine and Caroline, will reach these shores early this week, and so will Mrs. Francis S. North and her sons, William and Frances.

But not quite all Chicagoans are westbound, for there are some few who have chosen late vacations. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Hedley of Libertyville will be on the Majestic Aug. 28 Europe bound. It will be recalled that their daughter, Marion, was married to Robert Buckley in a lovely ceremony in June. Frederick A. Scott Jr. is planning to board the Columbia yet this month for a West Indies cruise.

The Lester Armours, with their children, Betty and Lester Jr., sailed Saturday on the Conte de Savoia, and two honeymooning couples, the John Drums and the Junior James H. Breasteds, will be on shipboard at the end of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Drum (Isabel Davis) are going across to England on the Britannic, and Mr. and Mrs. Breasted (Helen Ewing) will be on the City of Hamburg when it leaves Thursday.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Carrington, 1400 Lake Shore drive, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Grace, to the Rev. William Atkinson Young, which is to take place at noon on Aug. 28 at the Fourth Presbyterian church. The Rev. Mr. Young is the pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Peoria, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor of Kansas City, Mo. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Jane Carrington, and the groom by his brother, Arthur A. Young. The ceremony will be followed by a reception breakfast at the Drake hotel.

Frederick Patton Stewart announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Patton Stewart, to John E. Peters, son of Mrs. Edward Harvey Peters, 1400 Lake Shore drive, on Aug. 17. Miss Stewart is a graduate of the Chicago Teachers' college, and her husband attended the Chicago Latin school and Lake Forest academy.

The wedding of Miss Kathryn Sue Potter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul D. Potter, to Richard Vilter, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Frederick Vilter of Cincinnati, O., took place at 4:30 Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, 570 Hawthorne lane, Winnetka. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George E. Drew and was followed by a reception, also at home. Carl Vilter, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man and only attendant. The young couple are honeymooning in Canada, and after Sept. 5 will make their home in Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Debs, 2109 East 70th street, announce the marriage of their daughter Dorothy to Louis Leaf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Leaf of West Congress street, on Aug. 14. After their honeymoon the bride and groom will make their home in Ironwood, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Siewert of Cicero, Ill., announce the marriage of their daughter, Vivian Elizabeth, to Lawrence W. Pawley of Berwyn, Ill., last Saturday evening. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents. The bride and bridegroom, who are alumnae of the University of Illinois, will make their home in Berwyn after a short honeymoon in Wisconsin.

Tunic Dress Ideal in Early Fall

WOMAN'S AND MISS' TUNIC DRESS.

This smart tunic dress is just the thing for the first fall days. It is charming and practical, and you may cut the tunic in either of two lengths, whichever best becomes you. The original dress was made of warm, rust-colored silk that looks like woolen, and the collar, wristbands, and self-covered buttons were of jade green silk. Can you imagine anything more stunning? Cut on the lines of a coat frock, it includes all the tailored smartness of such models.

The pattern, No. 2935, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material, with 1/4 yard of 35 inch lining for skirt and 1/4 yard of 27 inch contrasting.

"Let's Have a Picnic," a booklet of picnic plans and recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

With all our chitchat about types of peaches yesterday we still didn't get to the "hows" of transforming this seasonal bounty into foods for the family table.

First and foremost, we keep thinking about a rich, oozy, sweet peach pie, coyly covered with an alluring peekaboo of lattice work. For an eight or nine inch pie you probably will want to use a third cup of butter, softened and mixed with three tablespoons of flour and a cup of sugar. According to the dictates of your palate (and your family) you may vary either proportions or amounts.

Other peach recipes:

Fresh Peach Ice Cream.
1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup chilled evaporated milk
1 teaspoon gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups peach pulp

Add the sugar, salt, evaporated milk, and gelatin (which has been softened in the cold water) to the peach pulp and mix thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly beaten cream and almond extract and freeze quickly.

Peach Chutney.
4 quarts peaches
8 cups vinegar
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 pound raisins
1/2 pound white mustard seed
2 ounces scraped ginger root
1 ounce red peppers
1 ounce garlic

Peel the peaches and remove stones. Add two cups of the vinegar and cook until soft. Add another cup of vinegar, the other ingredients, blend well, and add the remaining vinegar. Boil fifteen minutes and pack into hot jars. Seal at once.

PICKLED PEACHES.
Make a sirup of two quarts of elder vinegar and three quarts of granulated sugar. Place this in a kettle with a spice bag containing one tablespoon of whole cloves and one-quarter pound of stick cinnamon. Pare and halve the peaches and cook in the sirup until tender. Fill hot jars with the cooked peach halves and fill with sirup. Seal at once.

Convex Patches and Circles Make Attractive Quilt

Moon Blossoms.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A block constructed of circles and convex patches makes an exceptionally beautiful quilt. Blocks of this type must have been designed to test the patience and accuracy of every needleworker. On a white ground, two shades of blue may be used for the patches. On a soft blue ground, deep blue and white make an interesting combination. It is the sort of quilt suitable for either a masculine or feminine bedroom.

Pattern of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Write Sally a Note if You Want to Go to Toyland Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Have you ever dreamed of being in toyland—or of having all the toys you've seen displayed in the windows of the big stores at Christmas time—or of owning a big toy factory such as the story-books tell you that Santa Claus has?

I'm going to take fifty boys and fifty girls up to the huge playroom in the Stevens hotel Thursday, Aug. 29. It's quite the biggest and best equipped I've ever seen. And my guests are to be allowed to play with anything and everything. In addition we are to have a special entertainment and something good to eat.

Remember to include your full name and street address and your age in your letter telling me why you would like to be included in the party. Mail letter so that it will reach me by next Thursday morning. Address Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Compatibility Called Essential for Success in Matrimony

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In marriage, says Dr. M. J. Exner, noted social hygienist, there is needed such a degree of compatibility of the two personalities as will make possible the mutual adjustment necessary for a satisfying and growing companionship. In weighing the possibilities for such an adjustment certain outstanding elements must be considered.

First, compatibility of temperament. In these interests, there is needed here, Dr. Exner warns, harmony of temperament need not be perfect. It rarely is. But there must be compatibility to a degree that, coupled with intelligence, sympathy, and the will to adjust, will make possible a harmonious relationship.

Secondly, there must be enough interests the two persons can share, enough things to enjoy doing together, to furnish material upon which companionship may develop. A lack of common interests will tend to cause lovers to drift apart or to sink their relationship to the commonplace, drab levels.

Third, harmony of tastes and desires. A wide range of common interests, coupled with agreement in taste in these interests, presents a large and fascinating world for married lovers to explore together and in which to grow together. A serious clashing of tastes limits companionship and is likely to become a serious strain in the marriage relationship.

Fourth, reasonable harmony in habits. Human beings are creatures of habit, Exner reminds us. By the age of 25 our habits of life are pretty well rooted. Let lovers not be deceived into believing that they can radically make one another over in their habits. Let them rather make sure before marriage that their respective habits are such that their capacity to adjust themselves to one another in this respect will be equal to the task. A neat housewife who is annoyed by disorder and a careless, slovenly husband are certain to try one another's patience severely. Many divorces are traced back to less serious beginnings, Exner adds.

Harmony of character qualities, Exner places as a fifth element to be considered. Love and inspiring companionship must rest fundamentally upon a solid base of respect and confidence. Neither of the partners must expect perfection in the other. Rather must each let a wholesome consciousness of his or her own human weakness develop a growing sympathy and tolerance toward the weaknesses of the home partner. But it is imperative to continued happiness and growing companionship that the character elements of the respective partners be such as to sustain the full respect, admiration, and loyalty of the mate.

ROWE SHUTS OUT YANKEES WITH THREE HITS, 6-0

Hurt by Line Drive but Hits Homer.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—(AP)—School-boy Rowe, pitching the brand of baseball that made him the sensation of the American league in 1934, turned back the New York Yankees with three hits today as the Detroit Tigers scored a 6 to 0 victory and lengthened

In addition to blanking the second place Yanks Rowe drove a home run over the left field fence in the fourth inning with a runner on base.

Rowe pitched the last seven innings of the game under a severe handicap. He was hit on the groin by a hard drive off Combs' bat in the third

From then until the eighth he retired the Yankees in order. The first runner to reach base was Dickey who was safe when Greenberg dropped a throw from Rogell.

Shoun Gets His Chance to Pitch

for Cubs Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 18.—Charles Grimm, the managing vice president of the Cub brigade, will attempt a noble experiment tomorrow. At least he is hoping it will be noble in its results. He is going to start Clyde Duster Shoun, the 20 year old south-paw recently arrived from Birmingham of the Southern association. The youngster's only other big league appearances were two relief jobs. Joe Bowman will work for the Phils.

Frank Demaree had an attack of dizziness in the fourth inning of the first game and Lindstrom relieved him in center field. Demaree popped fouls to the catcher and first baseman in two times at bat and this may have brought on the attack.

DEPOSIT PLAN IS NO CURE-ALL, CROWLEY SAYS

Over Billion Losses
Written Off.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A warning of bank deposits "is not a complete remedy for the ills of the banking system," and that because of its existence "local pressure for pursuing sound banking practices tends to be diminished," was sounded today by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

LEO T. CROWLEY.

Mr. Crowley, in transmitting to congress the FDIC's annual report for 1934, the first submitted, pointed out that, regardless of federal deposit insurance, the solvency of banks "in the future as in the past" depends upon sound management, alert federal supervision, and, primarily, upon general economic stability of the country.

The report said the 14,124 insured banks wrote 1 billion 300 million dollars in accumulated losses off their asset ledgers in 1934. This big sweep of questionable paper was made possible by an inflow of $550,000,000 in new capital, supplied largely by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The FDIC figures showed that while taking heavy losses, assets of the insured banks rose from 40 billion 610 million dollars to 47 billion 370 million dollars during 1934, accompanying an increase in deposits from 31 billion 300 million to about 39 billion dollars.

Deposits Rise Sharply.
The report showed that despite the big write-off the increase in bank deposits since creation of the FDIC "has rarely been equaled in the past," and that federal insurance now covers 93 per cent of the country's commercial banks and 98.5 per cent of the depositors in those banks.

On the other hand, the report discloses that some of the banks in the insurance system are still undercapitalized and that bad management or "criminal activities of bank officers" continue to precipitate bank closings. In addition, the report indicates that, on the basis of past experience, the proposal in the pending banking bill to assess banks one-twelfth of 1 per cent a year on their deposits will not raise an insurance fund sufficient to meet losses through bank failures.

In connection with this latter point the report presented for the first time a tabulation showing the losses of depositors in all bank failures since 1865. A total of 10 billion 518 million dollars in deposits have been tied up in closed banks during the last 69 years, and out of this total the depositors have sustained a net loss of 3 billion 411 million after liquidation of the banks' remaining assets, according to the report.

Loss to Depositors.

Out of the 3 billion 411 million in unrecovered deposits, 2 billion 562 million would have fallen into the categories of deposits now insured by the FDIC, the report estimates. Thus, there has been a net loss to depositors

AAA Guesses Wrong; U.S. to Import Wheat

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The announcement of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration last week that wheat acreage will be curtailed only 5 per cent in 1935, instead of 15 per cent as previously planned, did not come until after Canadian wheat began to come into the country over the tariff wall.

Only two weeks ago AAA officials had intimated they would stick to their original quota. It appears more than a coincidence that the hasty retreat came at the moment that a cargo of 260,000 bushels of foreign wheat was being unloaded in Milwaukee for a Chicago milling concern.

AAA Powerless to Act.
There is nothing the AAA can do to increase supplies during the current season. A shortage of high quality milling wheat exists and the country is expected to draw on Canadian stocks throughout the year.

An earlier switch in plans was made by the AAA last spring. Winter wheat acreage had been curtailed 15 per cent, but when planting time for the spring crop arrived it was apparent that the country faced another short harvest in the southwest. The drought had not been broken and AAA officials were becoming uneasy. The result was to rescind entirely the contemplated reduction in spring acreage. But this last minute change in plans did not effect the desired results. It was too late for many farmers in the spring wheat states to increase their acreage. Planting operations were behind schedule, farmers lacked sufficient capital, and government agencies were slow in making seed wheat available.

Increase Theoretical.
As a result the theoretical increase in acreage was not fully realized. On paper, however, AAA had accomplished its purpose of bringing about a balance between production and domestic needs. Nature intervened during the month of July to spoil the prospect of an excellent crop. As a consequence the country is again dependent on foreign supplies.

The projected increase in next year's acreage had no noticeable effect on prices in the Chicago market last week. Far more attention was paid to reports of continued purchases of Canadian wheat. An estimated 5,000,000 bushels of wheat were purchased in the dominion for shipment to this country.

Speculators have shown some timidity the last few days on the prospect of more rigid federal regulation of exchanges, if the pending commodity bill is passed by congress. The conferences last week of Robert P. Boylan, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, in Washington did not give any clue as to whether the administration would attempt to push the measure through this session.

GAINS IN STOCKS NOW REFLECTED IN COMMODITIES

Almost All Staples
Show Increases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The speculative enthusiasm that has been agitating the stock market in recent weeks has finally bubbled over into the commodity markets, with a long delayed buying movement getting under way that lifted all staples prices last week with the exception of grains and rubber. A total of 11-110,670 stocks were traded in last week.

Silk set the pace in commodities, scoring a gain of 22 cents a pound on the week, one of the most sensational advances in its history. The burst of activity in stocks early last week, when turnover exceeded 2,000,000 shares daily, gave way to more caution, to profit taking, to stock taking on the industrial position and to some misgivings at the confused haste in congress to pass any sort of legislation in an effort at early adjustment.

Some Legislative Blows.
Some legislative blows were delivered, including the costly old age pension plan, but the realization that little seasonal letup has come in business this summer and that the autumn period of revival is close at hand sustained the tone in stocks.

The steel industry again moved up its operating rate. Retail and wholesale trade was reported active in most sections of the country. Railroad freight car loadings fell a little, but evidence of a smaller volume of goods moving is not conclusive.

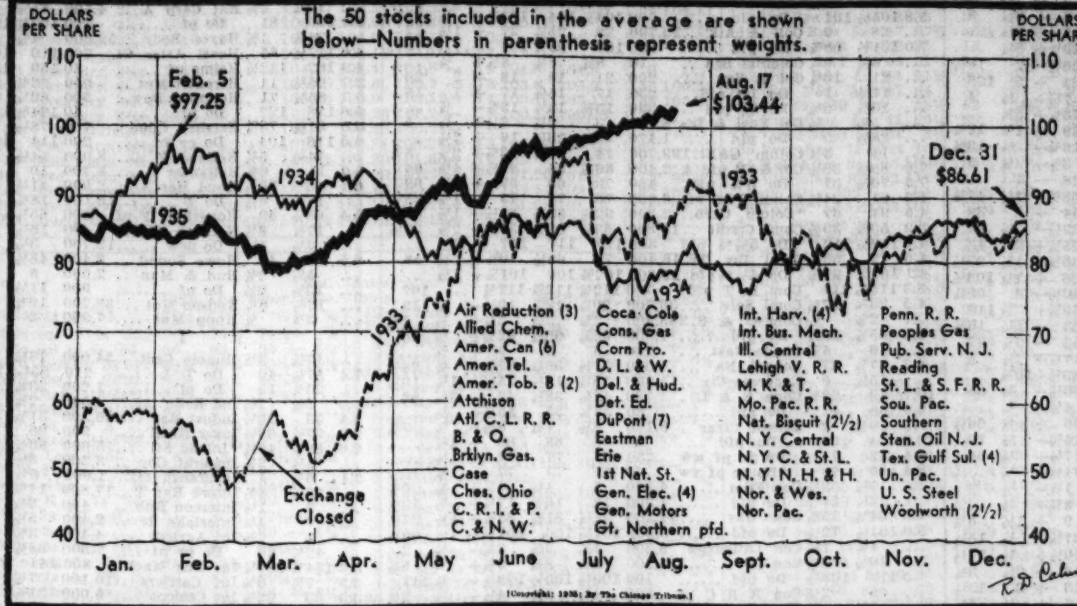

The refunding capital market enjoyed some revival. Borrowing by business at the banks did not expand, but that is no sure sign of a slackening of trade, as it will require further recovery for business to exhaust its own cash reserves.

Under Way 5 Months.
Five months have elapsed since the present advance began, making the longest period of rising prices since the low point of the bear market was established on July 8, 1932. The upward movement from that date lasted until Sept. 8, 1932; the second bull market covered the period from March 2, 1933, to July 18, 1933. Thus, the present rise is the third since the low of the depression, beginning on March 18, 1933, and holding to date. Rise No. 1 carried the average of fifty stocks from 33.96 to 72.38, a gain of 113 per cent; rise No. 2 was from 46.85 to 98.05, or 119 per cent; the present upward progress has brought the average from 77.92 to 103.76, or a gain of about 33 per cent. At the present level the average is approximately one-third of the peak of 311.90, reached on Sept. 19, 1929, and has tripled since the low point of 1932.

Parkinson Warns Spending Org Threatens Disaster

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, announced today that a special session of the chamber would be held Tuesday on the petition of members who "see financial disaster ahead unless the organ of government spending is stopped." Government expenditures and the proposed tax bill will be discussed, he said.

Average Daily Closing Price of 50 Leading Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange

Jewel Tea Co. Assails Huge Tax Burden

Jewel Tea Company, Inc., in its mid-year report assails the increased burden of taxes, pointing out that taxes during the twenty-eight weeks ended July 13 amounted to more than half of net profits for the period.

Net was $604,688 after all charges, equivalent to $2.16 a share on the 280,000 shares of capital stock outstanding, compared with $702,642 or $2.51 a share in the corresponding period of last year.

The decline in earnings was due to higher costs of goods and increased operating expenses and pay rolls, said M. H. Karker, president, in his statement to stockholders.

Costs Rise Sharply.
"Costs of raw materials and manufacture," he said, "have increased at a more rapid rate than retail prices, and the cost of many items consumed in operating has also advanced materially. Pay rolls account for over half the increase in expense, as wage rates were adjusted to meet higher costs of living and to provide added incentive and reward."

"During the last winter and spring forty-six state legislatures were in session and every one increased taxes by amending existing laws or by passing new laws," he said. "Congress is now considering still further tax measures and all legislators continue to search for new ways of raising revenue rather than for methods of reducing the cost of government, which, in fact, continues to increase." The company's tax bill has more than doubled in the last two years, he points out. In the first twenty-eight weeks of 1933 the tax cost was $156,649, which increased to $330,218 or $1.18 a share in the corresponding weeks of 1935.

Story Still Untold.

"These figures do not tell the entire story of the cost of taxes," he continued, "for during the year 1934 your company incurred extra expenses of $60,000 for salaries, postage, stationery, and other items necessary to the handling of tax matters and to the preparation and filing of 4,300 tax returns—seventeen tax returns per working day during the year." Total sales of the company during the twenty-eight weeks were $10,010,241, an increase of $1,014,215 or 11.27 per cent over a year ago.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE TRADE TOPS YEAR AGO; RETAIL LINES QUIETER

While wholesale business last week continued to outstrip 1934 marks, the retail field incurred an usual seasonal decline, which was more severe than in recent weeks, observers of the Association of Commerce reported yesterday.

The recession expected after the heavy purchases of out-of-town buyers during the week of the interstate Merchants council markets did not materialize in any degree comparable with what had been anticipated. Instead, orders continued in substantial amount from all sections of the country. Commitments for fall clothing headed the list.

Retail turnover was hit by the late vacationing of Chicagoans, although visitors accounted for good buying. Electrical industries were more optimistic than they have been in many months, and public utilities appear to be operating at approximately the same rate as in 1934, when the World's Fair was an aid.

A slight improvement was noted in the manufacturing group. Rents and building continue better, and a marked increase was seen in sundry vending activity.

ANACONDA SIX MONTH PROFIT 60 CENTS SHARE

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Anaconda Copper Mining Company will report tomorrow for the six months ended on June 30 a net income of $5,214,882 after expenses, interest, United States and foreign income taxes, provision for depreciation and minority interest, but before depletion of metal mines. This was equal to 60 cents a share on the 8,674,342 capital common shares outstanding and compares with $2,986,497, 34 cents a share on the capital stock, in the first half of 1934.

For the quarter ended on March 31, the company had a net income of $2,350,721, or 27 cents a share. Based on these figures, the net income of the June quarter was $2,864,161, or 33 cents a share.

Rail Credit Corporation Will Repay $735,879

The Railroad Credit Corporation will make its twentieth liquidating distribution to participating carriers on Aug. 31. E. G. Buckland, president, announced that the payment will amount to 1 per cent of the fund, or $735,879. Of this $379,884 will be in cash and $355,995 in credits on obligations due the corporation. The total returned then will be $25,755,974, or 35 per cent, $11,635,286 in cash and $14,090,688 in credits.

Declare Meat Unaffected by Packer Profit

Packers' profits are so small that they have no effect on the price of meat to consumers, asserted William Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, in reply yesterday to charges that prices paid by retailers and the public seem high in relation to the amounts paid farmers for their livestock.

"This is a matter of simple arithmetic," said Woods. "Three of every four dollars of packers' income is paid out of the live stock," he explained. "Of the remainder nearly half goes to pay rolls, a fourth for supplies, power, and fuel, and a fifth for repairs, insurance, depreciation, taxes, interest, and other operating expenses. Left available for profits is only approximately one-sixth of one cent a pound for live stock handled," he asserted.

Ten Year Change 2 1/2 Cents.

For ten years, he added, a difference of not more than 2 1/2 cents a pound has existed between the plant value of packing house products and the amount paid for live stock. Most of this has gone for expenses and other costs.

Government figures were quoted to show further that the index number of the farm price for live stock has moved up 63 points from the low point of March, 1933, while the index number of wholesale meat prices advanced only 44 points.

"Reference has been made to increases in meat prices," Woods continued. "While generally lower than they were in 1929 and 1930, they have advanced because supplies of live stock have been greatly reduced, thus bringing about a reduction of approximately 29 per cent in the national meat supply so far this year, compared with last."

Usage 140 Pounds Per Capita.

"United States consumers last year ate about 19 billion pounds of meat, or an average of about 140 pounds per capita. Sales of 863 packing companies which submit reports to the United States department of agriculture last year exceeded 2 1/2 billion dollars, including sales of produce and other nonmeat items."

"According to the same figures, the profit earned by the 863 companies averaged about a cent and a half per dollar of sales, or only a fraction of a cent per pound of meat sold."

"The packing industry is made up of hundreds of companies. The product which they sell is perishable and must be sold promptly for what it will bring. Competition is keen."

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 51%; GAIN SURPRISE

Chicago Production
Up 4 Points.

Steel production refused to be halted last week at 48 per cent, as had been predicted, and forged ahead 3 more points to 51 per cent of capacity, the first time the 50 per cent level has been crossed since the week of Feb. 16, when the rate was 53 per cent, says the magazine Steel. It was also predicted that operations in Chicago would level off, but a fresh wave of buying contradicted this prediction into a rise of 4 points to 57 per cent. Pittsburgh, which has been holding steady for several weeks, boosted operations 1 point to 42 per cent.

Other Gains Reported.
Other gains included 4 points to 55 per cent in Youngstown, 5 to 84 at Wheeling, 6 to 94 at Detroit, 1 to 32 1/2 in eastern Pennsylvania, and 11 to 56 in New England. Cleveland was off 3 points at 59 per cent and Buffalo was 3 points lower at 34 per cent, while Birmingham was unchanged at 35 1/2 per cent.

One of the underlying reasons for this bulge in operations is the heavy demand from automobile manufacturers with instructions to roll the material and hold it ready for release as soon as needed for new models, the Journal says. About 25 per cent of the fresh orders from the industry last week were for immediate shipment, it was reported.

Heavy Steel Orders Larger.

Orders placed for heavy finished steel last week were larger, the review continues, with 12,000 tons of structural shapes and 3,500 tons of reinforcing bars being taken for the department of interior building at Washington. Structural shape awards for the week showed a slight increase at 22,150 tons.

Raw material prices are strong and demand active, it said, with further advances in scrap pushing the magazine's scrap composite 8 cents higher at $11.96 a ton, the best level since the last week of January. This rise in scrap also boosted the iron and steel price composite 4 cents to $32.63 a ton, while the finished steel index remains at $54 a ton.

WATCH RADIOS AS NEW IDEAS TO RECOVERY

Heavy Expansion Indicated for This Year.

New York, Aug. 18. — [Special.] — With the course for steel production fairly definitely set, automotive output for the summer exceeding expectations with indications that new models this fall will give added impetus to the industry, and with a definite upward trend in the construction field, the financial community is turning its eye toward the radio industry.

In radio, Wall Street sees the next factor contributing to the rise toward greater recovery. With so many other bullish trends occupying the attention of those who attempt to chart the nation's business, financial and economic course, little has been advanced by the leader of the "post war" industries.

A survey of outstanding radio manufacturers in the United States indicates that plans for the coming year provide for an increase in production ranging from 60 to 100 per cent. In the case of the larger companies the output will even surpass the higher figure, it is indicated.

Introduce New Models.
New models for the 1935-36 season are now being introduced to the wholesale and retail trade, and the enthusiasm shown by these dealers is prompting set manufacturers to since their most optimistic course.

The growing acceptance of more than 25 per cent of the receiving sets in use today—a parallel to the situation in the motor industry at the opening of the "model year" now characterizes the radio industry.

Officials of the Radio Corporation of America announce their program for the new year contemplates an increase in production of approximately 100 per cent over the total for the current year now ending.

Auto Market Better Field.
In addition to expanding foreign markets set manufacturers have found an ever increasing field in the automobile market. Aside from the outlets the domestic or home field still remains the great avenue for new set distribution without considering replacements.

Units sold in the United States during 1934 totaled 4,084,000. The highest mark since 1923, when 4,538,000 units were disposed of, against 3,806,000 in 1933. Estimates now in preparation indicate sales for the current year will reach if not surpass the 5,000,000 mark.

Cream of Wheat.
Investors' Guide: Kindly give me information on Cream of Wheat.

Answer: Cream of Wheat Corporation is engaged solely in the manufacture of a breakfast food, "Cream of Wheat." A liberal advertising budget has maintained sales of this product at a fairly even rate during the last five years. Earnings consequently have been marked by a high degree of stability.

Although earnings in 1934 increased slightly over 1933, they have fallen off in 1935. Net income in the second quarter of 1935 was 12 1/2 per cent less than that in the second quarter of 1934. For the first half of this year net income was $480,000, or 80 cents a share, against net of $569,000, or 95 cents a share, for the corresponding 1934 period.

Per share earnings in 1934 were $2.26, against $2.15 in 1933, $2.50 in 1932, $2.27 in 1931, and $2.11 in 1930.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong.

There is only one class of stock totaling 600,000 no par shares. The stock pays quarterly dividends of 25 cents a share. An extra 25 cents a share was paid on Jan. 2, 1935.

The stock deserves a fairly good rating. It is interesting to note, however, that in contrast with results of well during a period of slack business activity, but during the first half of 1935, when most other corporations were showing substantially increased returns, Cream of Wheat's earnings fell off.

Wagner Assets Realization Corp.
Investors' Guide: Kindly give me the present address of Wagner Assets Realization corporation. Have you had any recent word from them regarding disposal of their property? Thanks for the information which you so generously afford us in your department.—E. W. I.

Answer: Wagner Assets Realization corporation, which has charge of the liquidation of the affairs of the defunct E. W. Wagner & Co. brokers, is at 531 S. La Salle street, Chicago, 16, 1932, from the following, dated Jan. 16, 1932, to the corporation:

"The largest real estate asset is the Darwin, Cal., mining property, and until this property is disposed of, the status of the corporation must necessarily remain the same."

July, 1935, we received the following supplemental letter:

"The status of the corporation remains unchanged. The mining property is the only remaining asset. Efforts are still being put forth to find a purchaser, but so far without success."

LOW PRICES IN TRADE IN BONDS

Government Issues Again Move Lower.

New York, Aug. 18.—(P)—Speculative and investment interest in low-priced rail and utility loans kept the corporate bond market moving along at a lively pace last week.

There were no special developments from a legislative point of view to influence the trend other than the somewhat neutral incidents surrounding the senate and house investigations into lobbying against utility legislation, but strong and active stock markets and a further rise in idle bank reserves provided sufficient motive power to keep the lid headed upward.

U. S. List Declines.

United States government loans again displayed little interest for anything except lower levels. The treasury disposed of another batch of $100,000,000 of 2 1/2% at an average price of 100 25-32. The oversubscription was considerably less than on previous occasions when the government added to this issue and the price nearly a full point below that realized in the last sale when the price averaged 101 1/2-32.

The Associated Press average of 10 utility bonds made new highs for the year on two separate days and the industrial group bumped up against the 1935 high, but was unable to penetrate it. The rails, as measured by these averages, made a good showing, as did foreign bonds, due principally to improvement in some of the German obligations.

Money Market Easy.

An indication of the extremely easy conditions in the money market and the extent to which investors are anxious to convert funds from idle bank balances into profitable employment was seen early in the week when the Canadian government sold in the American market an issue of $75,000,000 ten-year 2 1/2% per cent bonds at 97 1/2.

The bonds were placed by a nationwide syndicate and before the end of business on the day offered they had advanced a slight premium in New York. This was the only new issue of importance during the week.

Banks Write Off 1 1/2 Billion Losses in 1934.

during the last 69 years averaging about one-fifth of 1 per cent out of deposits in all active banks.

The conference draft of the pending bank bill proposes a levy of one-twelfth of 1 per cent on deposits in active insured banks each year in order to build up an insurance fund. The house draft of the bill provided a levy of one-fifth of 1 per cent, the average indicated by the FDIC study.

Chairman Crowley's warning against regarding the FDIC as a panacea for banking troubles was contained in a section of the report entitled "Deposit Insurance and the Banking Structure." It read:

"Deposit insurance has brought changes in the operation of the commercial banking system, the effects of which have not yet become fully apparent. By the very fact that the corporation offers security to depositors, the force of local pressure for pursuing sound banking practices tends to be diminished. Pressure of depositors upon receivers of closed banks for a rapid and efficient liquidation has been removed, leaving receivers subject chiefly to the pressure of debtors who wish to obtain maximum leniency.

Borne by Whole System.

Losses which were formerly borne by local interests are shifted to the entire banking system. Such changes place responsibilities upon those administering the federal system of deposit insurance which differ from those placed upon other banking authorities. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures deposits in 93 per cent of the commercial banks of the country, and its interest in the sound operation of banks is more tangible than what has hitherto existed in any bank supervisory agency.

"Deposit insurance, however, is not a complete remedy for the ills of the banking system, nor for the unstable business conditions which in the past have culminated in periodic banking crises. The soundness of the banks is intimately related to economic conditions; and the solvency of banks in the future, as in the past, will depend upon the part played by the banking system, not for the soundness of individual bank management, will be controlled in large measure by general economic conditions and monetary and credit developments."

SENATOR NYE URGES CUBA PAY BOND INTEREST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Senator Nye (R., N. D.) today asked Cuba to carry out a "good neighbor" policy by paying defaulted interest to American investors on $400,000,000 of Cuban public works bonds. Contending taxes had been collected for the specific purpose of meeting these obligations. Nye urged the Cuban social-economic union, now in Washington as guests of the government, to resume interest payments. The senator is chairman of a bondholders' committee.

"If your government were financially unable to pay on the interest that is rightfully due them on the $400,000,000 they invested in Cuban public works bonds," Nye wrote Jose Manuel Cassanova, president of the Cuban social-economic union, "we should give sympathetic consideration to such a situation. But this is not the case."

SEC TO ALLOW ADVANCE NOTES ON SECURITIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—John J. Burns, general counsel for the securities and exchange commission, today said that distribution by statistical services of bulletins descriptive of securities for which registration statements have been filed would not violate the securities act. His opinion also held that underwriters and dealers may distribute such material to their customers, subject to certain restrictions.

Burns warned that the underwriters must not use the bulletins as "selling literature," supplement them with selling literature or "a recommendation to the recipient as to the desirability of purchase, or attempt to obtain from the recipient some indication of interest, however tentative."

Teagle Has Conference with Premier of Denmark

(Copyright 1935 by the New York Times.)
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 18.—W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, had a fifteen minute conversation with Premier Stauning of Denmark tonight before leaving Copenhagen to visit his company's European branches. It is believed the trade balance between the United States and Denmark was the chief subject discussed.

R. S. Reynolds Announces Home Equipment Concern

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—R. S. Reynolds has announced formation of the Reynolds corporation, a household subsidiary jointly owned by the R. S. Reynolds and the Reynolds Metal Company, to manufacture and sell a system of construction and equipment for modern fireproof, insulated, air conditioned houses.

First Pictures of Rogers-Post Plane Crash Wreckage in Alaska Rushed Here by Wirephoto

WRECKAGE OF ROGERS-POST DEATH PLANE IN ALASKA—The shattered wreckage of the plane in which Will Rogers and Wiley Post fell to their deaths 15 miles south of Point Barrow, Alaska, Thursday afternoon, after it had been pulled out on the bank of the icy little river in which it crashed. Rogers, the humorist, and Post, master aviator, were killed instantly when the plane heeled over on its right wing after crashing from a height of 50 feet immediately after takeoff. Photographs at the scene of the crash were taken by Charles Brower, "King of the Arctic" and friend of Rogers. (Copyright: 1935: By Associated Press.)

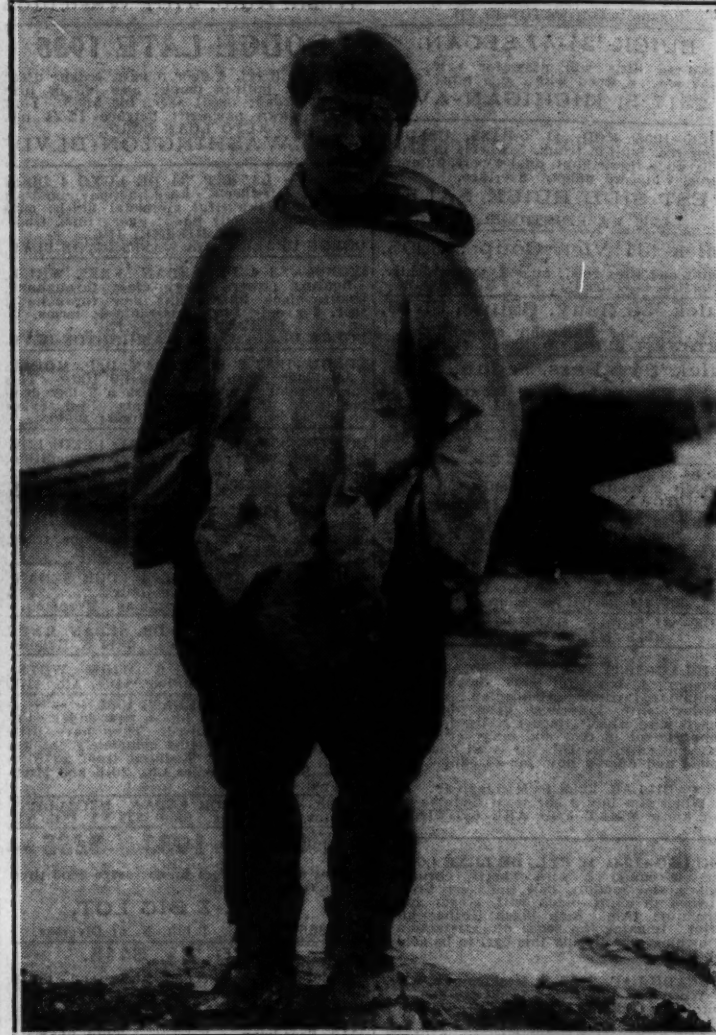

ROGERS-POST PLANE SHATTERED IN FIFTY FOOT PLUNGE—Closeup of the wreckage of the plane in which Will Rogers and Wiley Post crashed in Alaska Thursday. Rogers and Post had landed on a tiny river near Point Barrow, Alaska, their destination, when fog had made them uncertain of their bearings. Post took off, only 10 minutes from Point Barrow, but the ship crashed when the engine missed fire. The plane struck on its right wing and the impact drove the motor back through the fuselage. (Story on page 1.) (Photo taken by Charles Brower. Copyright: 1935: By Associated Press.)

RUNNER WHO BROUGHT NEWS OF CRASH—Claire Oakpeha, Eskimo who ran 15 miles through muck in five hours to carry word of plane crash which killed Wiley Post and Will Rogers, standing near wreckage. (Photo taken by Charles Brower. Copyright: 1935: By Associated Press.)

ESKIMOS AT SCENE OF WRECK—Natives that formed the party which went to crash scene to aid in recovering bodies of Wiley Post and Will Rogers after their crash in icy river near Point Barrow, Alaska. The natives are standing on the river bank, with the wreckage of the plane in the water in the background. These photographs at the scene of the wreck were taken by Charles Brower, "King of the Arctic," who was to have been host to Rogers while the latter visited Point Barrow. ASSAILS JEW BAITERS—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, denounced "unregulated individual acts" against Jews in address yesterday. He is shown with his daughter on recent visit to London. (Story on page 1.) (Aime Photo.)

POST AND ROGERS JUST BEFORE TAKEOFF ON FATAL FLIGHT—Photograph of Wiley Post and Will Rogers, the last taken of them alive, at Fairbanks, Alaska, just before they hopped off for Point Barrow. A few miles from Point Barrow they were forced down by fog, and on an attempted takeoff their scarlet monoplane crashed, killing both men instantly. (Associated Press Wirephoto.) (Story on page 1.)
